Floating Pickets Bar Greek Ship

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—A floating picket line, manned by two union officials in a small motor boat, thwarted a Greek freighter's plans to load cargo during a labor dispute.

U.S. Coast Guard Lt. Dick Clapp said the ship, Northern Frost, headed instead for Kenosha, Wis., Thursday afternoon. Clapp said the vessel listed its home port as Piraeus, Greece.

There were no arrests or injuries reported in the incident. The pickets, Douglas Kubie and Joseph Garbo, both of Milwaukee, set out into Muskegon Lake just off Lake Michigan aboard a small motorboat as the freighter neared shore.

They bore a small sign about the labor dispute between Local 815, International Longshoremen's Union and West Michigan Dock and Market Co., the freighter's destination.

The union's 17-member Muskegon unit is seeking a new contract with the firm. But talks broke down recently after continuing since the old contract expired in December.

Local officials in Milwaukee urged the Muskegon members to strike, but the local unit refused.

Kubie is the local's business agent while Garbo is a vice president, union officials reported. They said the freighter's unidentified pilot also is a member of their union and refused to cross their picket line.

Dock officials called the Coast Guard in an effort to halt the picketing. The pickets still refused to return to shore.

Then, two other union officials were ferried to the picket line by the Coast Guard in another bid to stop the picketing. Kubie and Garbo just kept sailing.

Finally, after staying at anchor in the lake for hours, the freighter turned westward toward Wisconsin without picking up the load of cherries it came to get.

Kalkaska Man Charged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Patrick Scott, 26, of Kalkaska, was bound over Thursday for federal court trial on charges of threatening the life of President Gerald Ford. The decision came after a preliminary hearing before U.S. Magistrate Stephen Karr. The magistrate continued Scott's bond at $10,000. No trial date was set. Secret Service agents said during the hearing they are convinced Scott was sincere when he told of plans to shoot the President with a rifle from a Mackinac Island lighthouse during Ford's visit to the resort island last Sunday.

Americans, Russians Exchange Visits In Orbital Homes

By HOWARD BENEDICT

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo astronauts and Soyuz cosmonauts executed their own brand of shuttle diplomacy today as they began a day of back and forth visits between their linked up orbital homes.

As they continued their unprecedented space journey, Soyuz commander Alexei Leonov and Apollo pilot Vance D. Brand made early morning transfers to the other's spaceship. "Welcome to Soyuz," Valeri Kubasov said as he greeted Brand.

"I am very happy to be here," Brand replied.

It was the first of three transfers scheduled during the final full day of linkup for the two ships on this first international space mission.

The five spacemen also arranged a farewell ceremony and a televised news conference for later today, to answer questions submitted by newsmen in Houston and Moscow.

Leonov was the first of the Russian crewmen to visit Apollo. Americans Thomas P. Stafford and Donald K. Slayton visited Soyuz for nearly three hours Thursday after the docking of the two ships 140 miles high.

During the transfers, astronauts and cosmonauts are conducting joint medical and scientific experiments and sharing meals. Throughout the joint activities, the Americans speak Russian and the Russians speak English.

Leonov, an accomplished artist who has had three books of his paintings published, today handed Stafford a sketch he had made of him; apparently during the Thursday visit to Soyuz.

The spacemen were up early to prepare for the transfers.

A television picture from Soyuz during the transfer showed the cosmonauts wrestling with space suit umbilical cables. Leonov remarked with a chuckle, "It looks like a bunch of snakes in here."

Over breakfast, they had recalled events of Thursday and Leonov termed it "exciting for both crews. This was a very important moment for both astronauts and cosmonauts. The minutes flew by very rapidly.... This was a meeting that emphasized the good will of our peoples."

The cosmonauts also checked a suspected slight pressure leak in the docking tunnel and Leonov reported, "It is not a big problem. We feel confident we do not have to worry about this."

Houston mission control theorized there was no leak and that sensitive detectors merely

Nominated For Highway Commission

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Haines Meyers Jr., the city attorney of Zeeland and Hudsonville, has been appointed to the state Highway Commission, Gov. William Milliken announced today.

Meyers, 42, was appointed for a term expiring June 30, 1979. He replaces E.V. Erickson of Grand Haven, who did not wish to be reappointed.

Milliken said Meyers has a long-time interest in public transportation and aviation, and "will be an effective advocate for what I consider to be one of Michigan's highest priorities — the development of a balanced transportation program that puts great emphasis on public transportation for all of Michigan."

The appointment to the four-member body is subject to Senate confirmation.

Winning Number

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The winning number in the Michigan Daily Lottery contest for Friday, July 18, is zero-four-four (044), the state Lottery Bureau said today.

Retiree's 'Bar Bill' $1.3 Million

DETROIT (AP) — A retired Ford Motor Co. executive who says he drank his way up the corporate ladder to head the firm's Swiss operations is seeking $1.3 million from the auto firm. He claims his job turned him into an alcoholic. Claiming alcoholism, drove him into early retirement, John R. Brennan, 56, said "an endless succession of long lunches and diplomatic social functions" addicted him to liquor.

Brennan, once board chairman and managing director of Ford in Switzerland, filed the damage suit Thursday in Wayne County Circuit Court.

He said his drinking problem was a "direct result" of his positions in the company and increased as he was promoted during his 26 years with Ford.

Brennan said he once sought aid from two Ford vice presidents — but the conversation was held at midnight in a Zurich hotel bar over a bottle of Johnny Walker Black Label scotch.

He said instead of helping him, the vice presidents asked him to sign a letter of resignation.

"I signed the letter," he said. "I don't know what the alternative was, but I imagined that it was public disgrace and termination without benefits. At no time was I offered help of any kind."

Now a business manager for Guest House, a treatment center in Lake Orion for alcoholic priests, Brennan said he was

Bill Would Outlaw Medicaid Abortions

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Paying for abortions with Medicaid money would be outlawed under an amendment tacked onto the state's $1.8 billion welfare budget bill amid stormy debate in the House.

The measure, approved late Thursday and sent to the Senate, also carries a 7 per cent increase in Aid to Dependent Children benefits.

That means payments to an ADC family of four in Wayne County would climb from the current $381.40 to $406, assuming the family had no other income. The vote was 67-36.

The state's share of the $1.8 billion budget is $933.9 million, which is $63.8 million more than last year and $840,000 below the governor's recommendation.

The anti-abortion provision, adopted 79-21, was proposed by state Rep. Edgar Fredricks, R-Holland, who called for curbs on welfare spending. He insisted using Medicaid money to reimburse medical personnel for abortions was not proper.

Less than $100,000 has been spent to pay for abortions under Medicaid, said social services department director John T. Dempsey.

"You're going to force a lot of recipients to back-alley butchers," said state Rep. Barbara-Rose Collins, D-Detroit, who opposed the anti-abortion amendment.

Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Muskegon, who steered the welfare budget through the House, said abortions are a reimbursable expense under the Medicaid program, which is funded jointly by the state and federal government.

The amendment also appears to be contrary to a 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision on abortion, said Kehres and other legislators.

School Strike Bill Defeated In Senate

By MALCOLM JOHNSON Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill which would legalize teachers strikes of up to three weeks was defeated Thursday in the Senate, as were amendments which would have allowed walkouts of up to four weeks. However, further debate is scheduled to reopen Tuesday as majority Democrats shoot for a compromise.

The bill's three-week term would mandate economic penalties for teachers and school boards after the first week of the strike. The attempted Democratic amendment for four-week strikes would have levied penalties after the first two weeks of the strike. The defeats followed a week-long attempt by both Republicans and Democrats to secure the necessary 20 votes. Republicans, aided by dissident Democrats, want the three-week bill. Later-backed majority Democrats favor allowing longer strikes.

In Thursday's voting, Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, lost his efforts to pass the compromise amendments, 18-19. Republicans who back the current bill attempted to approve the three-week version, but lost 17-20.

Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, warned the bill would be vetoed if the strike period was extended beyond three weeks. "If it's amended," he said "it can't become law. The bill has gotten to the point where it cannot be compromised."

Gov. William Milliken has said he would veto any version of the bill that lengthened the strike period beyond three weeks. The governor said further strike authorization would discourage early settlements. He said he wanted prompt economic penalties to force agreements.

The House passed a form of the bill permitting up to five weeks of strike, but that version is apparently dead. Six Democrats voted against their leadership on the four-week amendments. They were Sen. John Bowman of Roseville, Anthony Derocinski of Muskegon, William Faust of Westland, John Horiel of Detroit.

Patrick McCollough of Dearborn and David Plawicki of Dearborn Heights.

Only one Republican — Sen. Harry DeMaso of Battle Creek — joined the Democrats in supporting the amendments. With neither side able to get its way, the door was left open to further bargaining and compromise.

McCollough, one of the staunch Democratic holdouts, set the tone when he said "If there's no way to get Dave's (Plawicki) version, we're going to have to look at other alternatives. Some bill is better than none." Plawicki sponsored the three-week version.

Davis said there was a "50-50 chance" of passage of the three-week bill. He maintained there was no compromise possible from the Republican point of view. "We will have to recess the Senate's position on passing a bill," Fitzgerald said. But he added he would continue seeking a compromise which could attract 20 votes. "We'll go back to the drawing board," he said.

Food Stamps: They Are Costly Economic Band-aids

Much the same thing is happening to the food stamp program as has happened to the Social Security system.

Born in the Great Depression, Social Security was intended to provide a minimum income for those no longer working or unable to work. Its purpose was to stave off dire poverty among the elderly, the disabled, the widowed or orphaned.

Since then, of course, for millions of Americans Social Security has become their sole retirement income rather than merely a supplement to other income or savings. As every working person knows, payroll deductions needed to pay for steadily increasing Social Security benefits have soared to the point where many Americans are paying more in Social Security taxes than in income taxes.

Likewise, food stamps were originally conceived as a food-purchase subsidy provided by the federal government for families or individuals below a certain level of income. Since 1971, enrollment in the program has risen from about 9.4 million people to nearly 20 million and its cost is expected to reach $6.5 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1.

How far we have departed from the original concept of the program is shown by the recent ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington invalidating the formula upon which food stamp payments are based. The action was taken in response to a class-action suit brought by nine low-income families, the city of New York, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the National Welfare Rights Organization.

"For a family that needs a loaf of bread, the offer of a slice is poor comfort," said a three-judge panel, ordering the Agriculture Department to come up with a new formula that allows food stamp recipients to purchase "a nutritionally adequate diet."

Most people will probably go along with this, just as they have gone along with the idea that Social Security should provide every American with an adequate standard of living—assuming that we can agree on what is "adequate." In either case.

But while the Agriculture Department is liberalizing its eligibility requirements for those who really need food stamps, it is long past time for it to tighten up its procedures to exclude those who don't need them.

Congress has passed a temporary law banning stamps for students claimed as dependents by well-off families. Just the other day, however, the Senate Agriculture Committee was told that the department's complicated schedule of deductions is allowing many middle-income families to qualify for government help in paying their grocery bills. Expenses that can be subtracted from gross income include such things as federal, state and local taxes, Social Security taxes, medical costs over $10 a month, child care payments, tuition fees, rent or mortgages payments and union dues and alimony payments.

Urging its members not to be "too proud" to apply for food stamps, the National Education Assn. reports that one Minnesota teacher, with six children, qualified for stamps despite an income of $14,900.

Twenty million is a lot of people. It's nearly one out of every 10 Americans. In that large a number of food stamp recipients there are bound to be abuses, as well as instances where truly needy families are not receiving as much as they need. No doubt there are also many Americans who could qualify for the stamps but cling to the rather old-fashioned idea that they are responsible for their own support and that of their children.

The trouble is that the food stamp program is merely a kind of Band-Aid remedy applied to one symptom of the underlying sickness in the economy. As noted, its enrollment has more than doubled in four years. Unless the fundamental problems of inflation, unemployment and chronic welfareism are solved, it could grow even more prodigiously in coming years.

Calling All Democrats!

Now is the time for Democratic television viewers to come to the aid of their party. On July 26-27 the Democratic National Committee will stage its fourth annual fund-raising telethon. At 22 hours, it will be the longest to date — and, the party hopes, the most profitable. Last year's telethon grossed $5.4 million in contributions.

For the Democratic party, successful at the polls but perennially in debt, the telethon has become a vital financial crutch. In the four years since the first fund-raiser went on the air, the party's debt has been reduced from $9.3 million to "a shade over" $2 million. Moreover, telethon contributions now pay for 40 per cent of the Democratic National Committee's annual operating budget.

The state committees, which share 50-50 in the net proceeds, also are enthusiastic about the telethon. Not only does the money help defray office expenses but contributor lists come in handy during get-out-the-vote campaigns.

The Republican party has never staged a nationwide fund-raiser on television. It had planned one last summer, on a regional rather than a national hookup, but the telecast was canceled at the last minute because of the sudden resignation of President Nixon.

This year's Democratic telethon is the first to be governed by the new federal law on campaign contributions that took effect Jan. 1. Among other provisions, the law placed a $25,000-a-year limit on an individual's contributions to any federal candidate or group of candidates. It also established an eight-member, bipartisan Federal Election Commission to administer federal-election and campaign-financing laws.

In its first major ruling, the commission on July 9 held that a loan or loan guarantee constitutes a contribution and thus is subject to the $25,000-a-year ceiling. One effect of the ruling was to bar the Democrats from borrowing large amounts of money from a few wealthy contributors to meet telethon expenses which must be paid for in advance.

This year's total bill, for such services as air time, production, newspaper advertising and telephones, is expected to be about $2.5 million. But the Democratic National Committee says it has a substantial amount of contributions in hand, and enough potential loan guarantees in amounts of $20,000 or less to make up any difference.

Nevertheless, even less well-heeled Democrats had better keep those checks and bills coming. A lot of little numbers add up big. And the expenses are high. Donkeys don't eat as much as elephants but there are a whole lot more of them.

SENATOR, MRS. ZOLLAR AROUSE HER IRE

Editor,

While attending an auction Monday, July 14, on Bertrand Road, Niles, I was given two distinct impressions. First, that I am a second class citizen and second, that laws are to be obeyed only by people the likes of me. Among the treasure seekers at the auction were Senator and Mrs. Charles Zollar.

I was juggling in my purse with my small son on my arm, to obtain my driver's license for a "buyer's number" identification when a lady whom I recognized as Mrs. Zollar stepped before me and got her "buyer's number" without any identification. It was as though my place in line was completely ignored by the senator's wife.

The senator and his wife were just in front of me as I left the auction. They were driving a very large car, especially noticeable now when the President is asking for less gas consumption. As I watched, much to my surprise, Senator Zollar opened the window on his side of the car and threw some paper on the ground.

I did not realize the elected officials had the right to litter our State's roads while the ordinary citizens are in danger of being fined for such a thing. If every person in Senator Zollar's district threw just one piece of paper on the ground, our district would lose much of its beauty.

I am very thankful my son is too little to realize who the senator is. He certainly was not setting a good example of an elected official, that is, a man who is morally responsible to those who have elected him.

It seems the Senator and his wife cannot be bothered with the conventions that the others of us are expected to uphold. Perhaps, when those in office hold themselves in such high esteem it is time for a re-examination of goals. Surely, an "aristocrat" cannot represent his constituency in a republican manner.

Mrs. Larry (Trudi) Peters 416 West Front Street Buchanan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Informed of Mrs. Peters' complaints about him and his wife, Sen. Zollar, Benton Harbor Republican, said "I think there must be something more behind the lady's allegation than the incidents she claims took place. We politicians are used to having people tee off on us and get pretty much injured to it. But when they attack your wife, they must really be worked up. I'll admit I'm no shrinking violet, but anybody who knows my wife Babe will tell you she is one of the friendliest and most courteous people you'll find anywhere."

Mao's Message: Stay In Asia, U.S.

WASHINGTON — Mao Tse-tung is now engaged in an all-out effort to get the United States and West Europe to snatch his chestnuts out of the fire.

He's intent on selling the United States on keeping a sufficient diplomatic and economic presence to blunt Russian expansion. He has an abiding fear of Soviet encirclement, which seems high on the list of Kremlin aims. And Mao also hopes, through a continued United States presence, to keep the door open for the building of a more effective Chinese-sponsored underground in Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and the Philippines.

It is clear that after Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia, Mao is not worried that American operations in Asia will be any bar to the particular brand of underground subversion and guerrilla warfare in which he has proven his technical genius. On the contrary, a buildup of Russian-backed parties, as has occurred in Latin America, Africa and in South Asia, could prove a hard-to-beat combination.

Mao's stay-in-Asia messages to the United States comes in the form of covert hints to sources close to American diplomatic circles. Mao has learned, by careful observation, that U.S. foreign service officers, the State Department hierarchy and selected influential academic leaders jump much more quickly to the bait when the hints are indirect, channeled confidentially through men with "inside contacts."

The Chinese have also let it be known in Japan, again "secretly," but taking care to make certain the secret is spread, that they are not seeking to end the alliance that country has with the United States. As has been well reported, they confidentially told President Marcos of the Philippines they had no objection to American bases in his country. Mao's men have also hinted strongly they are in no hurry to acquire Taiwan, now governed by Chiang Kai-shek's successors.

The United States is not Mao's only target. He's been spryly active these past months in inviting a bevy of West European leaders to China, giving them red carpet treatment, having his men suggest to these Westerners that Europe, not China, is Brezhnev's target.

There has been a veritable parade of West Germans. Again and again, with infinite patience, Mao's aides druth on the theme, that the Kremlin is making a feint to the East, against China, only to bemuse and distract West Europe. Once Britain, France and West Germany relax, the story runs, the Russians will move in.

Premier Chou En-lai tells the Europeans they must strengthen themselves economically, politically and militarily. Teng Hsiao-ping indirectly urges the British to stay in the Common Market. The Chinese pull no punches in deriding the naivete of those European leaders who believe in promoting friendship with Russia and who work actively for détente.

Mao's hope, of course, is that a financially strong, united, militarily effective West Europe, reaching out politically and economically to East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania, will keep Leonid Brezhnev and his Kremlin colleagues so occupied in the West that Mao and associates will be free to follow their aims in Africa, the Middle East, Latin America and Asia.

If there's to be conflict, the Chinese strategy runs, let it be between the superpowers and their Western allies, leaving Peking free to pick up the pieces.

Vice President Becomes A Pawn

WASHINGTON — There was a stir last week when it was discovered that President Ford has taken the pragmatic step of keeping his options open about running again with Vice President Rockefeller.

The excitement came not from Republican politicians, who understand such things, but from reporters, who are known to make epic struggles out of simple routine when things are dull in the presidential game.

When Ford's campaign manager, Dr. Callaway, said that the President would run as his own man and not as half of a team, he was merely being sensible. To do anything else would be silly.

Ford is in the awkward position of being a President who was never elected to any office higher than that of congressman. He has less control than any modern incumbent over his party's convention, primarily because he has had only a brief period with access to national power to establish himself as a party leader.

He is in no position to throw away a major bargaining chip in advance — he may have to barter for his own nomination by offering the Vice Presidency to the conservatives or some other resistant faction.

Besides, he is merely doing what comes naturally. No other presidential incumbent for nearly four decades has committed himself automatically from the beginning of his bid for renomination to sticking with his current number-two man.

Franklin Roosevelt began the pattern in 1940 by dumping John Nance Garner, who had split with him over the issue of an unprecedented third term. Four years later he dumped another Vice President for Harry Truman.

After Dwight Eisenhower announced for reelection in 1956, he promptly declined for two more months to specify whether he would run again with Richard Nixon. While he dabbled, Harold Stassen tried an abortive effort to replace Nixon. Finally, he said he had asked Nixon "to chart his own course" — which was to remain on the ticket. Republican politicians believed at the time that Eisenhower had tried to keep the vice presidential nomination open until Nixon's strength in the party could be tested and that he personally would prefer someone else.

When President Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson flew to Dallas that fateful November of 1963, it was far from settled that Johnson would be on the ticket the following year. In fact, Attorney General Robert Kennedy was actively passing the word that Johnson was finished, and the Johnson camp was pessimistic about the future.

President Nixon flirted with dropping Spiro Agnew in favor of Treasury Secretary John Connally until practically the eve of the 1972 convention, and furthermore encouraged the speculation that he might make a switch. The Agnew caper provided the only element of suspense before what was otherwise one of the dullist political gatherings on record.

State 'Pool' Saves BH $2,000 On 6 New Cars

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor's first venture in a purchase pool should be evident sometime this weekend when six new police cars take to the streets, according to Dwight (Pete) Mitchell. Mitchell said the patrol cars are the first items to be purchased through a cooperative plan with the Michigan Department of Management and Budget's purchasing division which allows the city to take advantage of quantity purchase savings.

The six police cars cost the city a total of $25,551 and Mitchell said that figure represented a total savings of about $2,000 over buying the cars from private dealers.

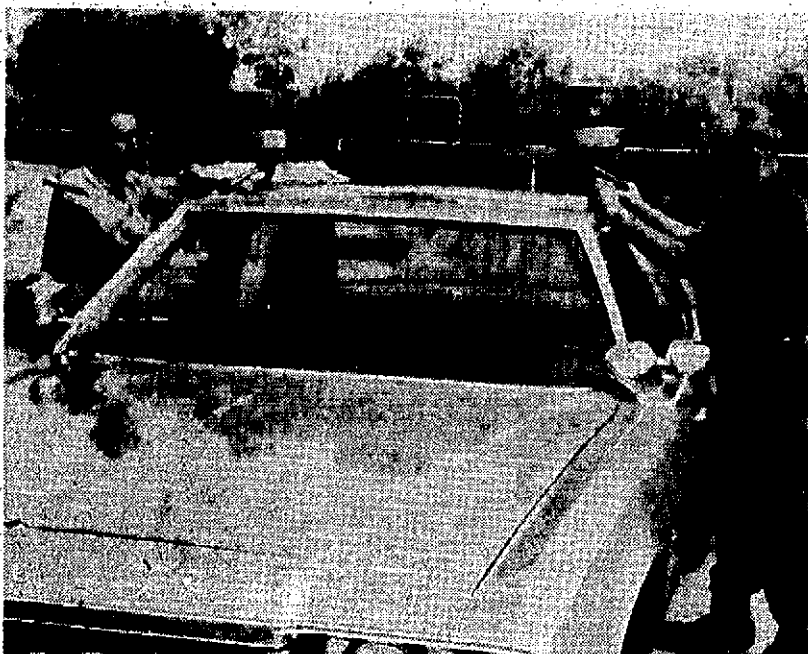

Five of the cars were driven from the purchase point in Troy, Mich., to Benton Harbor a week ago Friday and are presently being adapted for the police department's use, including installing radios, gun mounts and light bars.

Mitchell said the cars are a standard "police package," equipped exactly like all state police cars with heavy-duty springs shock absorbers and tires.

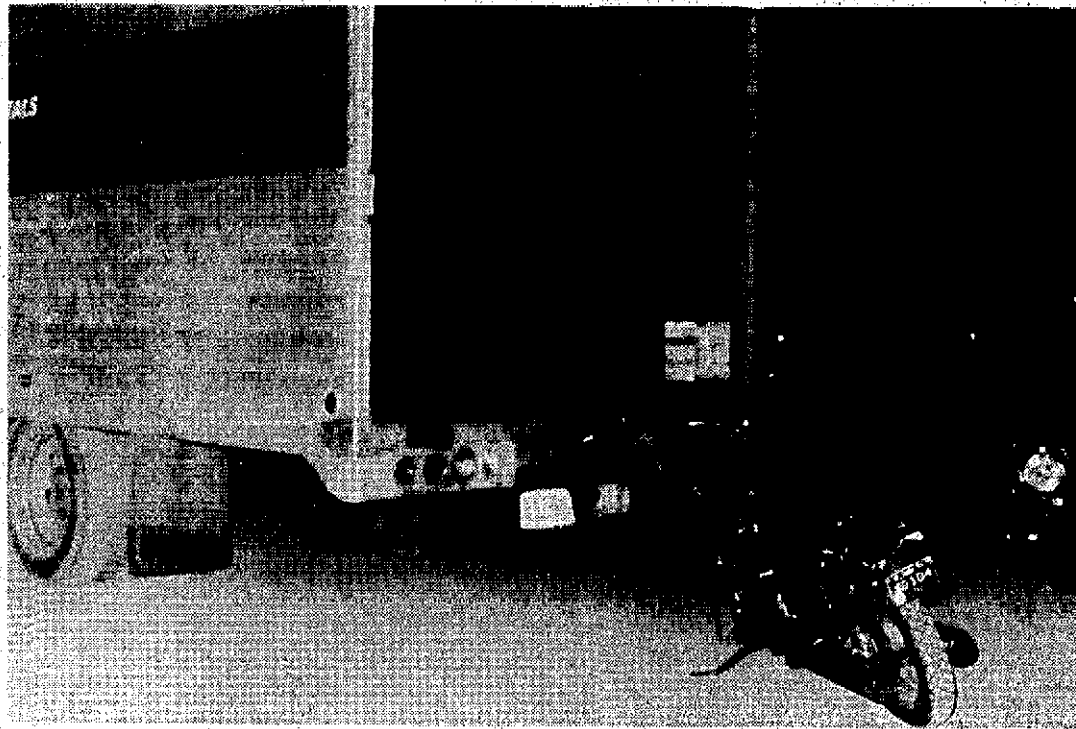

Another feature of the 1975 model Plymouths is their ability to use regular gasoline rather than being limited to unleaded fuel. Other 1975 cars are designed to allow only the use of unleaded gasoline. The cars will be able to use existing supplies of gasoline rather than having to purchase the unleaded fuel.

Under the state purchasing plan, smaller cities may take advantage of savings through volume buying at the state level. The city commission approved participation in the plan earlier this year.

St. Joseph also has joined the state purchase pool.

Banyon set the tone of the evening before the dinner when he remarked: "If you want 28. Their duty was virtually identical because they were on the same shift most of the time.

Last night's retirement dinner featured fire house humor as Hearn and Ives got roasted by younger firemen. Chris Dasse was master of ceremonies for the roasts and friendly conversation, just come to the Benton Harbor fire department."

Hearn says he will work part-time as a stockman at Sears, do some gardening at his Coloma home, dust off fishing rods and golf clubs, and enjoy his family. (He dusted the clubs yesterday with a hole-in-one on No. 8 at Blossom Trails.)

"During the three months of summer, a fireman has only four weekends at home, now I'll have every weekend," Hearn explained.

He and his wife, Cora, has three sons, a daughter and 11 grandchildren.

Ives has been on sick leave and underwent surgery for cancer of the nose. He said the operation was a success and he's now awaiting plastic surgery. After that he plans to "start looking for something," play golf and continue rooting for the Cubs — a pastime that hasn't been very productive since 1948.

Ives and his wife, Norcen, live at 594 Waverly drive, Fairplain. They have two sons and two daughters, three of whom are at home.

Looking back on their careers, Hearn said it's the fires that kill children "that hit you the hardest. Everytime a child is lost you come back to the station and think 'what can I do next time to better attack the fire and increase speed of search.'"

Hearn was off duty on March 9, 1970, when fire hit an apartment house on Fair avenue. He was called to the scene where four children were killed. He was the watch commander on March 7, 1974, when three children died in a Foster avenue apartment.

A fireman's life is not all tragedy and the danger of falling through a burning building.

"I'll never forget Jiggs (the department's Bulldog mascot). Jiggs answered every alarm and rode in the lead truck, barking all the way. Many a time Cap Stevens would tell him to shut up. Jiggs died of a heart attack after a fire run and was buried at southside station.

"One time we had schooling on emergency childbirth and Art Lake said 'that's a waste of time. I'll never be in a situation like that.' The next day Art assisted with an emergency birth while on duty."

Basement Damaged By Fire

A fire at the home of a former St. Joseph township trustee Thursday night was confined to the basement area with most of the damage from smoke, township firemen reported.

Firemen said fire at the home of Edwin Brink, 288 Fisk road, started when an apparently overloaded fusebox exploded. Part of a wall and ceiling area was burned and there was heavy smoke, firemen reported. No one was hurt in the 10:30 p.m. fire and firemen made no estimate of the damages.

Youth Boat Classes Are Still Open

Unlicensed youths, 12 to 18, who still want to operate power boats this summer have time if they take classes tomorrow and July 20 offered by the marine division of the Berrien county sheriff's department.

The free classes will be from 9 a.m. to noon at Paw Paw Paw lake yacht club, Coloma.

Lt. William Bellman said the six hours of classes and a written examination will qualify youths for a Michigan Boating Safety certificate which is required for youths, 12 to 16, to operate boats with six or more horsepower engines.

Teamsters Offer To Help Hotel With Big Loan

DETROIT (AP) — The Teamsters have come to the aid of the financially ailing Detroit Heritage Hotel by offering a loan from the union's pension fund.

The downtown hotel, formerly the Detroit Hilton, almost had to close three weeks ago because it couldn't pay its utility bills. The Teamsters loan will provide nearly $1 million for the hotel to pay back debts and spruce up public areas.

The loan will have to be approved formally next month by the union's full board.

SJ Residents Are Warned As Bike Thefts Increase

An increased rate of bicycle thefts this year over last year has prompted St. Joseph police to caution city residents to take extra care in protecting their bikes.

Det. Lt. William Mihalik said the city is experiencing a wave of bike thefts that if allowed to continue could lead to an estimated 150 bikes being stolen in St. Joseph this year.

Police statistics show 95 bicycles were stolen in the city last year. Mihalik said there have been about 60 bike thefts so far this year.

Mihalik said a bicycle theft ring inside the city was cracked earlier this year. However, he believes the current outbreak is caused by outsiders with most of the thefts coming during the night.

He said there were three attempted bike thefts Wednesday night alone. "It's becoming a common thing every night," he said.

Police urge residents to take their bikes inside their homes at night if possible or put them in the garage and lock the garage.

Embattled BH City Trio Gets Letter Of Confidence

Benton Harbor city commissioner Arnold Bolin has issued a statement expressing confidence in the "personal integrity and ... professional competence" of City Manager Charles A. Morrison, Deputy City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. and Director of Public Services Dwight (Pete) Mitchell.

Morrison, Farmer and Mitchell were charged last week in a press release from "Clean Slate" candidates as receiving "a silent rollback" on their property taxes. They have denied the charge.

At Monday's city commission meeting, Bolin voted against a motion calling for the Clean Slate to explain its charges. The motion failed in a 4 to 3 vote. In the following statement, he explains his reason. Complete text of the statement addressed to Morrison, Farmer and Mitchell:

Gentlemen: In view of the unfortunate climate that has developed as a result of accusations against you by a group of political candidates, I want to communicate directly to affirm to you that I have full confidence in you, both in terms of your personal integrity and your professional competence.

I want to explain as simply and as directly as possible how I look at what has taken place and is taking place:

— If any city staff member has done anything illegal or unethical, that staff member should be held accountable.

— If charges are made and not founded, the maker(s) of such charges should be held accountable.

— One is innocent until proven guilty.

— The tragedy of a situation like this is that accusations are often accepted by the general public as fact rather than allegation, so it is incumbent upon us to point out the differences.

Since two of you have taken steps based on Michigan law to request retraction and possibly proceed with a libel suit, I feel this matter is the responsibility of the judicial branch of government for settlement. As a commissioner, I do not feel it is appropriate for the legislative branch to act upon that which is in legal process, for it confuses the branches of government.

Perhaps I am being too literal and idealistic in this particular view, but until I see reason to change that view, I will oppose City Commission involvement in the matter.

It is highly regrettable that this type of political activity must become a part of our city's life when we have so many serious issues to face and resolve as a community. Our need for oneness and a sense of togetherness is desperate, and I regret that this kind of divisive, suspicion-raising atmosphere has been heightened in this way.

Again, I have confidence in you and your integrity. I hope that a swift but accurate judgment can be reached if this goes through the courts. While performance of your duties under these conditions is not easy, be encouraged to know many people feel as I do.

Vet Bonuses In Process

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About half of the Michigan Vietnam-era veterans' bonuses have been processed, say state military officials. Claims are being processed at a rate of 10,000 a week, a spokesman said. Veterans with claim numbers in the 100,000 series should receive checks by the second week in August, officials estimate. Processing for the 200,000s will begin in early August and should be finished by the end of October. Combat veterans receive $600 and noncombat vets are given $15 per month of service up to $450. Service time for either group must have been from Jan. 1, 1961, to Sept. 1, 1973. So far, $60 million has been paid on the program approved by voters last November.

Attractive Fence

Fences usually are built for practical reasons, but they also must present a pleasant appearance for neighbors and visitors.

Complete privacy with an open look and air circulation can be achieved with a board-on-board fence of wood.

More open is the slat fence of spaced two-by-twos set vertically on two-by-four stringers and four-by-four posts, or the lowered board fence.

Betty Ford Charms Michigan Crowds

By WILLIAM WEDDON Special Correspondent

MACKINAC ISLAND — Betty Ford, wife of President Gerald R. Ford, was charming in her silence during the three day on-and-off again visit to Michigan's northlands this past weekend.

"Hi-Betty," was heard often in the crowds and repeated in friendly tones whenever she was visible with the President. In a series of events which ran fairly close to schedule.

Although she granted no interviews and made no solo appearances, Mrs. Ford's beauty and composure seemed to captivate all those who saw her.

And, after keeping pace with Ford, a man who seems to have unlimited energy, from Friday's first visit to Traverse City, a round-trip flight to Chicago, followed by an appearance at Interlochen's National Music camp Saturday evening and a Sunday morning of activity on Mackinac Island, most members of the press corps were not surprised when Mrs. Ford did not take an active part in the sports of the afternoon.

Compared to her appearance in visits to her home state in previous years, Mrs. Ford has lost weight and her svelt figure contributed to the attractiveness of her outfits. She wore a green print, two-piece dress with a scarf knotted fashionably at her throat when she first arrived at Traverse City and during her final day on the Island, she wore a light blue, two-piece suit trimmed with white piping.

Her reddish brown hair, with a wide blonde streak beginning at the top of her forehead, added to her striking appearance.

Although she has not announced her plans for the President's upcoming campaign for election, it is expected that she will accompany him to events, depending on what and where they are.

Sunday morning, although she had originally been scheduled to attend the breakfast in the Grand Hotel, when the President addressed the Sixth Circuit United States Judicial Conference, the First Lady enjoyed breakfast instead at the Governor's mansion with Mrs. Milliken and Marge Griffin, wife of Senator Robert Griffin. Later the women walked down the steep path from the residence with their husbands to attend church services at the Trinity Episcopal church.

The Presidential party, including the Millikens' children, Bill Jr. and Elaine, returned to the three story, white, 24-room Victorian house for a luncheon of filet of beef in aspic, shrimp in mushroom casserole and miniature tarts. While the President relaxed on the south veranda, guests visited and a mini-political summit was held by the select group of Republicans on hand.

The house and grounds were surrounded by state troopers, county sheriffs and secret servicemen who had accompanied the President on his return from Chicago and a state trooper patrolled the site with a police dog. This surveillance was increased when a man was reported to have stopped at a Cheboygan gasoline station with a pistol in his belt and quoted as saying he had "come 400 miles to do a job." He was later identified as a crack rifle sharpshooter and pistol marksman. Ferries entering the harbor were stopped and passengers checked out, one was held up for half an hour before it was allowed to dock.

Despite her busy schedule and responsibilities as hostess, Mrs. Milliken changed into short, white sports garb, donned a head scarf and strode rapidly alongside the President during a nearly half-mile trek to the tennis courts south of the Grand Hotel in the afternoon. She teamed up with William Seldman, a long time friend and economic advisor to the President, in a series of tennis games with Ford and the Governor.

Mrs. Ford, accompanied by a military aide, walked down about 15 minutes after the others had left, to watch the foursome play. Later, while the President got in nine-holes of golf on the adjoining course with Senator Griffin, Mrs. Ford visited with Mrs. Griffin at the residence.

When they departed by helicopter at 7 p.m. on the first leg of their return trip to Washington, D.C., Mrs. Ford was wearing the blue suit she had worn to church in the morning.

Members of the Governor's staff, who met her during the visit, described Mrs. Ford as "A very warm and personable woman."

The Millikens did not return to Lansing until Monday.

Rental Program Popular Feature

By C.G. McDANIEL Associated Press Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Evanston Public library's rental picture service is so popular that users reserve their favorites in advance, just as they do popular books.

The library has a collection of 147 framed fine-art reproductions and 43 replicas of small pieces of sculpture.

Kenneth L. Knapp, head of the library's art, music and film collection, said in an interview that art rental services have become common in recent years in American libraries.

The Evanston library has reciprocal arrangements with a number of Chicago's other North Shore suburbs, so that residents of nearby towns and Chicago may use their towns' library cards to borrow from the Evanston collection.

Catalogs include small pictures, and descriptions of the prints and sculpture available. The works are also listed in the library's general catalog, so that a reader studying a particular artist might borrow a reproduction of that artist's work.

Last year, 1,039 loans were made from the print collection, and 140 from the sculpture collection.

Knapp said the library had been adding new works over the past four or five years, but had reached the limits of its storage capacity so no new ones were added in 1974.

Some prints are in great demand and if they are out when borrowers ask for them the library reserves them when the prints are returned.

Most popular, Knapp said, are a still life by Lydia Kemeny called "The Red Chair" and a seascape called "Quiet Anchorage" by Bria.

The collection also includes many of the big names in art — Braque, Chagall, Klee, Monet, Renoir, Calder, Gauguin, Matisse, Rembrandt and others.

"Everything by Monet has been out for months," Knapp said. This is the result of a major exhibition of his work at the Art Institute of Chicago, he explained.

The sculpture reproductions are largely from classical antiquity and include animal figures as well as humans.

Students at Northwestern university in Evanston and visiting faculty members are big users of the collection, Knapp said.

The students like to have something to liven up their "bare, hospital green rooms,"

ART FOR RENT: Kenneth Knapp of Evanston, Ill., library holds copy of "Head of Noblewoman" as he stands beside copy of sculpture, "Hand of God." The library loans copies of sculpture and paintings for display in homes.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

What Makes Perfect Wife?

Dear Ann Landers: You asked for letters describing The Perfect Husband and printed the best one. Now how about printing a letter from a male describing the Perfect Wife?

1. She is kind and considerate and sensitive to my emotional needs.

2. I can communicate with her freely on any subject and trust her never to make me feel uncomfortable — or tell anyone what I said.

3. She is willing to accept me as I am and not try to make me over in the image of the man of her dreams.

4. She is big enough to admit it when she is wrong.

5. This woman is completely mine and I never have to worry about her slipping around behind my back, no matter what the circumstances.

Her qualifications as a bed-mate are secondary, but she happens to be exciting and keeps our love ever new. I'm a lucky fellow because the woman I've described is my wife. Perhaps this letter will serve as an inspiration to others. — Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Georgia Peach: Lovely! I'm happy for you both.

Likes To Paw

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is a delicate one and I'm completely at a loss as to how to solve it.

I'm an 18-year-old girl who has trouble with my grand-father. He paws me. As a child, I hugged and kissed him and sat on his lap. Even now, I'm affectionate, but I feel there's a limit. I don't mind his arm around me if he would just keep

Dear Nix: I hesitate to suggest that Gramps is a dirty old man, but you wouldn't have written had the thought not crossed your mind.

With a big smile, tell Gramps, "I'm a big girl now. No more fondling me like I was four." If you should feel a hand in the wrong place after your little speech, lift it off and say, "Remember what I said..." and DON'T smile when you say it.

Opening lead — K ♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Sometimes experts get confused by their own bidding language. This hand cost a major team championship some years ago.

North was one of those minimum bidders who hated to open with a forcing two of any sort. His two heart rebid was a one-round force in the system he and his partner were playing. But they were playing so many conventions that he was under the impression he had forced to game.

Hence, North considered that his three-club bid was an unnecessary call on the way to four spades.

South almost passed three clubs, but did bid three hearts. He felt that three hearts to the king might be enough for a heart game. South also thought over four spades but finally decided that since he might have passed at three clubs there was no reason to make another bid.

At the other table North opened with two clubs and seven spades was reached in jig time.

Of course, both South's made the grand slam. This was back in the days of total points and the 1,500 gained by the good bidders was enough to give them victory in the match.

For years, my husband has been intrigued with the studies of Abraham Kaplan, a professor of philosophy, who is concerned with a society where "everybody talks and nobody listens."

Professor Kaplan coined his own word for it. He calls it "Duologue" and says it takes place in schools, churches, cocktail parties and especially in Congress.

"Be honest," said my husband, "when I talk, you are not only not listening to what I say, but you are thinking of what you are going to say next. Like if I said I had read a good book lately you would be..."

"Hey," I interrupted, "did you hear about Irene Morstahl? She bought 'Fear Of Flying' and thought it was the story of the Wright Brothers. Go ahead, dear, with whatever you were saying."

"You see! You weren't listening," he said.

"Of course I was listening. How else would I have tied in my funny book story?"

"Women are always complaining their husbands never talk to them. They talk to them all right, women just don't listen. That's why you get things to screwed up when you repeat them."

"Look, just because I could not remember if you stayed home Saturday to get the lawn sprayed and the dog sprayed, or the lawn sprayed and the dog sprayed is no big deal. It's very confusing to begin with."

"Do you know what Professor Kaplan says? He says the perfect 'duologue' is two TV sets tuned in and facing each other."

"Which reminds me," I said, "what time is it? There's a Maude rerun I want to watch. Keep talking... I'm listening."

He reached over and took me by the shoulders and looked at me squarely: "You are going to learn how to listen."

"How can I listen if you keep talking all the time?" I said irritably.

"There's a party coming up this weekend. We are not going to say anything. We are going to wander in and out of conversations and listen. Do you understand that?" (I nodded.)

At the party, I attached myself to a speaker who looked like a shorter Woody Allen. He was discussing how a rattle in his car turned out to be two empty soda bottles in the trunk which had absolutely mystified eight mechanics. At the end of (check one) 15 minutes, an hour and a half, three days I said to him: "That is really interesting."

He said, "If I had known it was that interesting, I'd have listened myself."

Let's hear it out there for the Duologue.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I have had constant and excruciating pain in my left ear. I've been told that the whole trouble lies in my teeth. Could this be possible?

Miss D. F., Wash., D.C.

Dear Miss F.: It is indeed possible. A frequent cause of earache is traceable to the change in the "bite" of the teeth.

In the absence of any intrinsic disease of the ears, changes in the jaw joint are always considered as a possible source of the pain.

The jaw joint is a highly sensitive one and reflects any imbalance in the bite of the teeth. A small sac in the jaw joint, known as "bursa," can become inflamed and irritated when the bite is off balance.

The nerve that goes to the tender jaw joint has branches that run to the ear drum, the ear canal and even down the neck and shoulder. The result is that pain from a jaw joint disturbance may be referred to other parts of the head, the neck and the ears.

Sometimes it is very difficult for dentists to pick up tiny variations in the bite that affect the jaw joint. It then becomes necessary to do highly specialized X-ray studies of the jaw joint and the bite occlusion of the teeth.

There are specialists who devote themselves exclusively to this problem, which is called

"temporo-mandibular joint disease."

With readjustment of the bite, planned exercise of the jaw, replacement of missing teeth, repair of poor fitting dentures and total evaluation of the dental status, the severe pain that you describe can usually be eliminated.

What is meant by "mask of pregnancy"?

Mrs. L. L., Iowa

Dear Mrs. L.: Occasionally, a brownish discoloration appears on the cheeks of a pregnant woman. This facial blemish, known as "chloasma," is temporary and almost always disappears after the child is born.

It is suspected that a temporary imbalance of the hormones that normally circulate in the body may occur during pregnancy and account for this condition.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

BOX OF BADGES: Albuquerque, N.M., Police Chief Bob Stover had a box full of police badges Thursday after 64 per cent of the force, 324 officers, resigned during a six-day strike. Officers walked off their jobs Saturday in a wage dispute. (AP Wirephoto)

Attention Shifts To Postal Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's top labor troubleshooter is turning his full attention to averting a strike by the nation's postal workers after a one-week postponement of a threatened rail strike.

W. J. Usery Jr., chief federal mediator, said serious differences remain between the Postal Service and its four unions. The postal contract covering 600,000 workers expires at midnight Sunday.

Usery had hoped to obtain an agreement before the weekend to forestall the possibility of wildcat strikes by postal workers, but it was believed that a settlement today was unlikely.

Usery concentrated on achieving a postal settlement after the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks agreed Thursday to the one-week postponement of a strike deadline, which had been 12:01 a.m. Monday.

The railway labor talks broke down after union and rail industry negotiators were unable to settle relatively narrow differences. Industry and union negotiators blamed each other for the impasse.

The union, which represents 117,000 railway workers, has tried for several months to negotiate a somewhat different settlement from that signed earlier by seven other rail unions. The main problems appeared to be jurisdictional questions and differences demanded by the union in the cost-of-living formula from that agreed to by the other unions.

William Dempsey, the chief industry negotiator, said the railroads have no choice but to resist the union's "effort to gain more for its members" than the other unions.

Union President C.L. Dennis charged that "management wants a strike" because the railroads "think they will get the government to bail them out once again" through congressional intervention.

In the postal talks, the main issues are the Postal Service's effort to obtain more flexibility on work standards and in laying off workers.

But chief union negotiator Bernard Cushman said the chances of reaching an agreement which did not retain the no-layoff clause is "fairly negligible."

The American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers, the two largest postal unions, have

Medics' Plan Gets Initial Approval

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan State Medical Society has received preliminary approval to operate its own company to provide malpractice insurance for its doctors.

Formal approval Wednesday by the Michigan Insurance Bureau and the Michigan Corporation and Securities Bureau clears the way to establish the new company — the Michigan Physicians Mutual Liability Co.

The company plans to write policies for society members who have lost insurance from private companies. Effective June 1, the second-largest malpractice insurance company operating in Michigan, Shelby Mutual Insurance Co. of Ohio, refused to renew policies.

The state also has set up an insurance fund to guarantee malpractice coverage for doctors who cannot get it through private firms.

Drug War Rages In Battle Creek

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Deadly struggles for control of the area's drug traffic are leading to more murder and holdups around Battle Creek, three top-law enforcement officials warned Thursday.

The trio asked for creation of a special grand jury to investigate.

Capt. Russell Sholes, head of the Battle Creek police investigation unit, contended there was a drug war in the area from 1972 until last year that "often ended in shootings and beatings."

Sholes said at least 13 of the 34 murders in the area since 1968 definitely were linked with narcotics traffic. He noted Jackson had only 27 murders and Muskegon 23 during the same years although both are similar in size to Battle Creek.

A grand jury investigation would really drive a lot of criminals out of this area," Sholes contended.

The captain did not explain why he considers the drug war over now.

Meanwhile, his chief, Theral Smith, said there is evidence linking some of the city's six homicides this year with drugs. In all of 1974, Battle Creek had only five murders.

Calhoun County Sheriff Roger Dean and State Police Sgt. Marion Baggett joined Sholes in calling for a grand jury.

Law enforcement officers in the area have said for years that Battle Creek's location on Interstate 94 makes it a natural drop for drug traffickers traveling between Detroit and Chicago.

Sperm Bank Loss Shocks Depositor

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
CARMICHAEL, Calif. (AP) — The letter began: "Dear Depositor," and it told Eric Bloom that the deposit he made with a sperm bank shortly before he had a vasectomy had been accidentally destroyed.

"He just sat there. We were stunned," said Bloom's wife, Linda, 27. "He hasn't said a word about it since that day, but I think it must bother him. There's nothing he can do, and it bothers me."

Bloom, 28, and his wife already have three children.

"We weren't planning on more children. Our only purpose was to insure that we would have a family in case we should ever lose any of the kids," said Bloom.

"There's no problem at this point. It does take away one option we had planned on, and I absolutely would not have had a vasectomy if I thought I couldn't count on that deposit."

Bloom, an architect and contractor in this Sacramento suburb, said Thursday that he received a letter from the Chartered International Cryo-Bank in San Francisco. The letter, postmarked June 24, said that "despite careful planning, a disastrous situation has occurred, and all semen in storage was accidentally destroyed, possibly by vacuum failure and a simultaneous malfunction of the thermal monitoring device."

It is not known how many depositors the Cryo-Bank had, but one of them, 33-year-old bachelor Gregory Marton, has filed a $5 million class action suit against the bank. Marton, who has no children, had also had a vasectomy and is seeking damages for mental anguish.

Marton's attorney, Justin Roberts, has declined to discuss the case, but his office said it has received many calls from other depositors.

The letter Bloom received said the bank "is now forced into bankruptcy and corporate dissolution and regrettably, the few remaining assets will not even cover the closing costs."

Both Bloom and Marton said the president of Cryo-Bank, Robert A. Quinlan Jr., told them when they made their deposits that the sperm would be "fully protected against destruction" by two "fail-safe" monitoring systems and backed by $500,000 insurance.

Quinlan has not been located since notification of the sperm loss.

The letter to Bloom, which was unsigned, said the bank "can only convey our deepest regrets — for your loss is also ours. In a situation similar to the physicians' malpractice insurance, the authorized coverage of at first $1,000 and then $500,000 was unable to be placed into effect because of technicalities within the industry and extraordinary premiums."

Bloom's sperm deposit was made three years ago, just after the birth of the Blooms' last child, Corey. Then Bloom had a vasectomy. The couple already had two other sons, 5, and 8.

"I was opposed to the idea of a vasectomy, until I learned about the sperm bank," Mrs. Bloom said. "We have made some major changes in our lives on the assumption we would be able to have children later."

Bloom says only time will determine how great his loss is.

"I'll find out in the next 10-20 years if this loss makes any difference. If the corporation still exists and if there is any insurance, I think I'm entitled to my share."

Intercepted Soviet Mail Surrendered By CIA Chief

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mail intercepted and retained by the CIA has been turned over to Justice Department investigators, and the postmaster general issued a sharp rebuke to the intelligence agency for interfering with the mail.

The fact that the agency had some of the letters it seized during its 20-year mail surveillance program was revealed for the first time Thursday by Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar.

According to Bailar, CIA director William E. Colby has turned over to him 110 opened letters and post cards which had been intercepted by the agency in 1972.

According to the Postal Service, the CIA previously had claimed "that all such intercepted and opened mail had been copied and returned to the mails."

Bailar added that the mail had been surrendered to the Justice Department in response to a search warrant and that it "is being held pending possible legal action against those responsible for opening and detaining it."

According to authoritative sources, the department's criminal division has been investigating the CIA's mail surveillance program since last December when Colby first informed then-Deputy Atty. Gen. Laurence H. Silberman about the program.

According to the Rockefeller Commission, which conducted its own investigation of the mail program, "United States statutes specifically forbid opening the mail."

Unlike many of the "plainly unlawful" CIA acts outlined by the commission, the common five-year statute of limitations might not prevent prosecution of officials responsible for opening the mail, since the program was not terminated until February 1973.

The same sources also confirmed reports that the criminal division is investigating possible perjury charges against former CIA director Richard M. Helms in connection with statements he has made under oath about agency activities. Helms, now ambassador to Iran, is scheduled to make a third appearance today before the Senate intelligence panel to answer questions about alleged CIA involvement in assassination plots.

Her First Win Was A Big One

GAINES, Mich. (AP) — A 58-year-old Wayne woman won the $200,000 top prize in the weekly Michigan Lottery Super Drawing on Thursday.

Roberta Robertson, mother of one child, said her winning ticket had been the only ticket to win anything in the state giveaway since she started buying lottery tickets in 1973.

She and her husband, John, are retired, lottery officials said.

Saying she was "still shaky" from winning $200,000, Mrs. Robertson said she had no plans for the money.

"They told me that I had a big winner," she said when a Secretary of State's office official told her that her ticket had qualified her for the Super Drawing.

Her husband said because they had never won anything in the Michigan lottery, he stopped buying tickets several months ago. His wife, however, kept on buying "a couple of tickets" a week.

Winning the $25,000 second prize was William L. Downing, 41, owner of a Gagetown supermarket.

The three $10,000 prizes went to Philip Smith, 42, a West Bloomfield widower; Verrey Lynn Holmes, 35, a Taylor housewife, and to a Lansing restaurant, Casa Nova, Inc., represented by Carolyn Falsella.

The drawing in this town of 400 southwest of Flint was the last weekly drawing to not be televised. Starting next week, the Super Drawing will be transmitted over a network of Michigan TV stations as a 7 p.m. program originating from Detroit.

Station WKBD will provide the production facilities as well as the Detroit outlet for the program. Other stations to carry the weekly program include WILX, Jackson; WEYI, Saginaw-Flint-Bay City; WPBN, Traverse City; WTOM, Cheboygan and WUHQ, Battle Creek.

Meanwhile over $64 million in lottery prizes have been given out during the fiscal year just past, lottery officials noted Thursday.

Ticket sales for the fiscal year ending June 30 neared $136 million, producing $64.8 million in revenue for the state's general fund, officials said.

Revenue is up $117,000 from the year before.

Some $2 million in unclaimed prizes, about five per cent of all winnings, also goes to the state, officials said.

AAAH, COOL: Jerry O'Malley, 24, a Chicago truck salesman attending a week-long meeting in Detroit, cools off in his hotel swimming pool after Thursday's meeting. Temperatures hovered in the near 90's in the Motor City and are expected to remain high for a while. (AP Wirephoto)

Holland Panel Firm Sued In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Atty. Gen. Warren Spannaus has filed an antitrust suit against a Michigan manufacturer of office partitions.

The suit, filed Thursday in Hennepin County District Court, also names as defendants several nearby dealers of the partitions, which are moveable or semimoveable panels used to separate work areas in many business and government offices.

The manufacturer named in the suit is Modern Partitions Inc., Holland, Mich.

Spannaus alleged that the defendants conspired to eliminate competition among the manufacturer's local dealers by allocating and dividing the Minnesota market for partitions.

The complaint asks the court to enjoin the defendants from eliminating competition among dealers, to award money damages to the state and its political subdivisions that purchased Modern partitions and to assess civil penalties against the defendants.

Other defendants are the manufacturer's three representatives in Minnesota — Tom Hendrickson, Minneapolis; Tom Hendrickson and Associates, Minneapolis; and Manufacturers Contract Representative Inc., St. Croix Falls, Wis., and two local Modern dealers — Office Interiors Inc., Bloomington, and Haldeman-Homme Inc., Minneapolis.

House, Senate At Odds Over Gym Sex Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House find themselves at odds as to whether the government should ban separate physical education classes for boys and girls. But an aide to a top House backer of the ban predicts eventual approval.

By a 65 to 29 vote Thursday, the Senate rejected an amendment that would have forbidden the government to require coeducational gym classes. A measure carrying the same effect had passed the House on a 212 to 211 roll call vote Wednesday.

U.S. Apple Crop Up 13 Per Cent

A 13 per cent larger apple crop nationwide is predicted this year by the United States Department of Agriculture.

USDA's July 1 apple crop estimate, the year's first, also predicts a 16 per cent increase for the Eastern states, a 17 per cent increase for the Central states and an eight per cent jump for the Western states.

Michigan, which produced 15,952,000 bushels of apples last year, is expected to produce seven per cent more this year with a crop of 17,143,000 bushels. At the annual crop guesstimate this year Michigan Frozen Food Packers association members predicted a Michigan crop of 16,775,000 bushels.

Total crop for the Eastern states was pegged at 76,464,000 bushels, compared to last year's 66,023,000 bushels. New York growers will produce 25,238,000 bushels this year, a 19 per cent production increase over '74. USDA guessers said. Pennsylvania will increase production 15 per cent over last year with a predicted crop of 13,095,000 bushels. Other Eastern state estimates place the West Virginia crop at 6,429,000 bushels, Virginia at 10,714,000 bushels and North Carolina at 7,143,000 bushels.

Central states will produce a total crop this year of 30,895,000 bushels, 17 per cent above '74's crop of 26,420,000 bushels.

Washington state is expected to remain consistent with its last two crops. Actual production in 1973 was 44,286,000 bushels; in 1974 production was 42,262,000 bushels and this year's crop is set at 45,238,000 bushels, USDA said.

USDA said the total U.S. crop would be 173,384,000 bushels, compared to last year's 153,395,000 bushels.

Robert Kinney Heads Cherry Producers

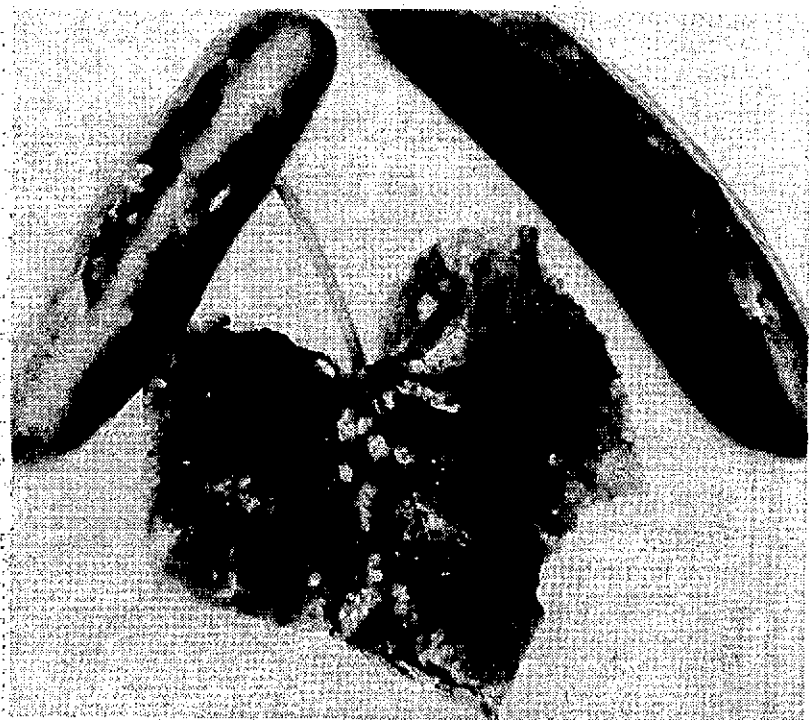

Robert C. Kinney, of St. Joseph, is the new president of the Michigan Association of Cherry Producers. He was elected at the association's annual meeting in Ludington on June 27.

The association, a member of the National Red Cherry Institute, contributes money to the national institute and handles promotion of sweet and tart cherries within Michigan, according to Robert C. Frohling, secretary of both the national and the state organizations.

Also at the meeting three growers were elected to serve on the association's executive committee, among them Karl Barden, South Haven.

METRIC PACKAGE MADE HERE: Sam Monte, manager of Monte Package company, Riverside, compares a one pint blueberry till, left, with a new 500 gram till, right. Pete Holbein, manager of the Michigan Blueberry Growers Association, one of the users of the 500 gram till, said his association will pack European-bound blueberries in them because 500 grams is a common package size. Monte's other customer for the unique package is Brady Farms, Inc., Grand Haven, another shipper to the European market. Monte also produces the cardboard container for eight 500 gram tills. Demand for blueberries in Europe is so high, Holbein noted, that people pay from $1.50 to $1.65 for a pint of American berries, compared to the U.S. price of 49 to 59 cents. (Staff photo)

ANGULAR LEAF SPOT: Moist conditions have been ideal this season for the development of angular leaf spot on cucumbers. Two characteristics of the disease are pictured. Spots on leaves are angular and, as can be seen near end of each fruit, an amber gel is produced on the surface of the cucumber. (Staff photo)

Angular Leaf Spot Threatens Cucumbers

Berrien Extension Agent Jim Nelbauer reports that angular leaf spot on cucumbers could become very serious this season.

High moisture over a long period of time is the main reason that the disease is showing up in pickle and slicer fields, he said.

The disease is identified by the shape of the spots that appear on leaves. The spots follow the leaf veins, giving the angular appearance, he said. On the fruit an amber gel is formed.

He noted that scab disease also produces this amber gel. If the grower has a scab-resistant variety, and the gel is still present, it is an indication of angular leaf spot.

If seen in fields, the grower should apply full rates of copper fungicide, he added. The disease will eventually rot fruit.

Propose $2 Jump For Nursery Stock Check

A hearing is scheduled July 23 in Lansing at 10 a.m. on a proposal to increase nursery stock inspection fees. The hearing will be held on the fifth floor of the Lewis Cass building.

The proposal would increase the minimum inspection fee for the first acre or less from $8 to $9 and hike the per acre fee from $3 to $4. The hourly inspection rate would go up from $6 to $8 per hour, figured to the nearest half-hour.

Dean Lovitt, head of the plant industry division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said inspection fees have not been changed for the last six years.

Farm Crops Recycle Air

CHICAGO (AP) — City people can thank farmers not only for their food, but also for the air they breathe, says Prairie Farmer, a leading rural magazine.

"It's not just idle talk that farms offer a good, clean atmosphere," it says. "Farm air is fresh and clean. That is because plants help purify or 'recycle' the air."

The magazine says one acre of corn supplies enough fresh air for 12 people for a whole year during its growing season. Corn acreage fertilized to produce 150 bushels of grain adds enough oxygen for 18 people. Farm crops also absorb carbon dioxide. An acre of corn converts almost eight tons of carbon dioxide into oxygen during the season. Other crops do the same.

Bicentennial Farm Feature Husking Bees Begun By Indians

Colonial farmers adopted not only many agricultural practices from the Indians concerning corn, but they borrowed at least one social custom, too.

Indian corn culture had already differentiated between regular corn crops and the more succulent sweet corn varieties believed developed by the Iroquois Indians.

Recipes for succotash and hasty pudding, also called loblolly, were also borrowed from the Indians. One facet of the corn diet the colonists didn't adopt was the addition of dog meat. They preferred salt beef, salt pork or chicken.

While the borrowing of many of these practices from the Indians are well recognized, lesser-known is the belief that even the husking bee originated with the Indians. This combination of work and frivolity was popular on early farms.

One custom that developed dictated any man who husked an ear of corn laden with red kernels could claim a kiss from any girl at the bee. A form of this practice was part of the culture of the Iroquois.

Disaster Money For Wheat

Farmers harvesting winter wheat may be eligible for disaster payments if wheat yield is low, according to Milton Francis, manager of the Berrien Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

Producers with a low yield caused by natural disasters, such as the rains and hail which struck Berrien fields, could receive relief if yield is less than two-thirds of the yield established for the farm by ASC. To be eligible for assistance, farms must have an ASC allotment, Francis said.

Publish Vineyard Disease Bulletin

A Michigan State university bulletin dealing with vineyard diseases and nematode control is available at county extension offices.

Topics include nematodes, grape viruses associated with nematodes, sampling soil for nematode detection, nematode control and vineyard site preparation. The bulletin, number E-806, is titled "Vineyard Preparation for Nematode and Virus Disease Control."

FRUIT CONSUMPTION

Per capita consumption of all fruit rose in 1974 to 205.6 pounds, the highest level since 1948, and appears likely to rise again in 1975, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Per capita use of processed items is expected to increase this year and consumption of fresh fruit is also expected to rise further from the moderate increase in 1974 and may reach the highest level in five years.

KEY LAWMAKERS ABSENT

Business Tax Talks Halt

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The absence of key legislators and protests from lobbyists halted discussion on a major state business tax revision Thursday in the Senate Taxation Committee.

Sen. John Bowman, D-

Rosville, committee chairman, scheduled another meeting for today. He said all sides would thus have time to consider proposed changes in the bill which has passed the House.

The measure, Gov. William Milliken's proposal to combine eight business levies into a single tax, seeks a 2.5 per cent tax on profits, payrolls, interest and depreciation.

The measure is intended to produce about the same $800 million a year produced by existing taxes. It also promises a one-time windfall this fiscal year of $180 million — a crucial consideration in passing a new budget.

The complex measure has encountered opposition from businesses which would see their taxes increase. Lobbyists protested that they hadn't had a chance to study amendments to the House version.

In addition, only two Democrats showed up. Both Republicans on the six-member committee are opposed to the bill, so Bowman didn't have the four votes needed to send the bill to the chamber floor.

Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, left to attend a Democratic caucus on a bill legalizing teacher strikes. Huffman was named Wednesday to temporarily replace Sen. John McCauley, D-Grassie Ile, on the committee. McCauley is being treated for a heart attack.

Bowman indicated he is less interested in considering further changes in the bill than reporting it out and getting it rid of it.

"This isn't our bill. We don't want any glory here, but we'll have to get some sort of bill on the floor pretty soon," he said. "This is one of those things nobody wants credit for — least of all me."

At another point, Bowman said in frustration: "I don't know how in the world this bill is going to work, frankly." He then postponed the meeting "to see what corrections can be made."

The committee is considering minor amendments to the bill to help reduce the burden on small businesses, help construction companies, increase a capital acquisition deduction for Michigan-based companies, and reduce the wide shift in tax burdens under the bill.

Even with the changes, utilities would see a tax reduction of some 33 per cent, while manufacturing would save 21 per cent. Business services would see their taxes double, while agricultural levies would be up 85 per cent and construction taxes would climb 63 per cent.

Milliken Signs Tax Deferment

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed a bill to allow many senior citizens, widows and disabled home owners to defer summer property tax payments until Feb. 15.

The new law affects those with household incomes under $10,000 and is applied to property taxes due this summer, Milliken said Thursday.

"A tax refund can be almost an empty gesture if we require property owners to pay out funds they cannot afford to let go and then make them wait for its return from the state," Milliken said.

The measure allows those afected to defer their taxes until property tax refunds come back from the state early in 1976. It also extends property tax credit-filing deadlines from six months to two years after the end of the tax year in which credit is claimed.

Milliken also signed a bill to resolve a horse racing dispute over commissions split between the state, tracks and horse owners.

The new law hikes the amount going to thoroughbred tracks, breeders and owners.

"The racing industry should be on notice that the approval of this legislation presumes disruptions in the racing program will be avoided in the future by all parties," Milliken said. He referred to a recent race boycott by horsemen estimated to have cost the state $300,000 a day.

First '76 Cars Ready To Roll

DETROIT (AP) — The first cars of the new model year begin rolling off U.S. assembly lines next week as American Motors Corp. opens production of 1976 autos.

Overall industry output will remain slack, however. Model changeover vacations continue at all 17 Ford Motor Co. assembly plants, while production lines will sit idle at seven General Motors Corp. facilities, with workers on temporary layoffs.

A total of 26,025 auto workers will be on temporary layoffs next week, up from 17,750 last week.

An additional 77,200 Ford workers continue on paid vacations, with 11 of 31 manufacturing plants shut in addition to the assembly factories. Some 54,700 workers at 18 plants will return from vacations.

In all 129,000 of the industry's 712,000 hourly workers will be on indefinite layoffs, down from 131,200 this week due to a reduction in layoffs at Chrysler Corp.

American Motors, smallest of the domestic makers, said it will become the first to start turning out 1976 cars, though they won't go on sale until fall. The company ends model chan-geover shutdowns at its Toledo, Ohio, Jeep plant and Milwaukee body factory.

General Motors has 88,300 of 400,000 hourly workers on indefinite layoffs, the same as this week, and 18,000 on temporary furloughs, up from 10,150.

Temporary shutdowns continue at GM plants in Wilmington, Del., Pontiac, Mich., and Lansing, Mich. (Oldsmobile). New plant closings begin at the Buick home plant in Flint, Mich., the Cadillac home plant in Detroit and at assembly plants in Fairfax, Kan., and Linden, N.J.

At Ford, temporary layoffs are down to 4,000 from this week's 5,000 because of scattered callbacks. Ford's indefinite layoffs are stable at 18,000 of the firm's 174,000 hourly workers.

Chrysler has 22,500 of 114,000 employees on indefinite layoffs next week, down from 24,350 this week. But temporary layoffs jump from none this week to 4,025 next week as the firm's Belvidere, Ill., assembly plant begins the first week of a two-week shutdown.

AMC has no workers on temporary layoffs next week, down from 2,800 last week.

Russian Splits Ford, Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unwittingly, perhaps, but as effectively as Russia's Ural mountains separate Solikamsk and Serov, exiled Soviet author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn has divided President Ford and his secretary of state over whether Ford and the writer should meet. President Ford says he wants to meet with Solzhenitsyn while the Nobel laureate is in Washington. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says the President should not. The dispute began last month, when Solzhenitsyn arrived in Washington. On June 30, he spoke for an hour and a half to the AFL-CIO. Emotionally, in Russian translated into English, Solzhenitsyn cautioned Americans not to be misled by detente. There has been no change in the "inhuman ideology" of Russian leaders since the era of Stalin, Solzhenitsyn said.

Protest Blossoms In India

AHMEDABAD, India (AP) — Opposition to India's three-week-old political crackdown is blossoming in the home state of independence leader Mohandas K. Gandhi. And it is taking the same form as his protests that helped shove the British rulers out of India: passive civil disobedience. Opposition leaders claim that at least 100 people are being arrested each day throughout Gujarat State after deliberately courting imprisonment by publicly reading forbidden criticism of the central government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Keep Out Of Talks—Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has appealed to six key legislators not to interfere with the administration's attempts to negotiate a new Canal Zone treaty with Panama. In a letter to the six, Kissinger criticized the "unwise initiative" of the House of Representatives under which the State Department would be denied funds for continuing treaty negotiations. An appropriations subcommittee headed by Sen. John Passmore, D-R.I., will take up shortly a bill which contains the House-passed amendment designed to put an end to the Canal Zone negotiations.

Congress, Ford Deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — With present oil price controls due to disappear Aug. 31, Congress and President Ford are deadlocked over how to shape a new petroleum pricing program. "We should work for some sort of compromise that's in the best interests of this nation of ours, pulling together instead of pulling separate ways," said House Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va. Staggers spoke Thursday after the House finished congressional action on a bill extending existing oil price controls while rolling back currently uncontrolled oil prices in a way expected to produce a Ford veto. Staggers expressed a "hope he wouldn't veto it."

ATT Gets Saudi Loan

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil-rich Saudi Arabia will lend the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. $100 million to help finance its Bell System operations, according to an AT&T spokesman. The spokesman said Thursday that AT&T has completed private placement of the $100 million in six-year notes at an interest rate of 8.4 per cent annually. He added that the interest rate was the competitive rate prevailing when the placement was arranged in late April through the First Boston Corp. of New York City. AT&T and its operating companies have already raised $1.2 billion in financing this year and expect to sell notes for an additional $600 million later on, the spokesman said.

Egyptian Contract Revealed

LESLIE, Mich. (AP) — A Leslie inventor says he has signed a contract with an Egyptian oil man to build a factory for removing sulfur from crude oil at the wellhead. On-site removal of sulfur could save $5 a barrel, Floyd Wallace said. Normally, crude is shipped to a refinery where sulfur and impurities are removed. Wallace, 58, said he plans to keep the process secret. Besides, U.S. oil companies have already had their chance, he said. "Nobody in the United States wanted to buy anything of mine," he said. "You can't even give anything away these days." The former chemistry teacher expects to fly to Cairo in the next few months to plan the factory. Wallace said he signed a contract for rights to his process last month in Montreal, Quebec, with oil well owner Dr. Moustapha Samy. "Engineers have been working on a process like this for years," Wallace said. "I don't know how they do it, frankly, but I know my system is new and different."

Fruehauf, Two Officers Guilty In Tax Evasion

By GENE SCHROEDER

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's largest truck-trailer manufacturer and its two top officers have been found guilty of criminal conspiracy to evade payment of $12.3 million in federal excise taxes.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas P. Thornton returned the verdict Thursday against Fruehauf Corp., board chairman William E. Grace and the company's president and chief executive officer, Robert D. Rowan.

The two officers could be sent to prison for five years and fined $10,000 each, and the corporation could be fined a similar amount, according to a court spokesman.

In addition, the Internal Revenue Service now is expected to seek payment of more than $50 million in penalties and interest on the unpaid taxes, according to U.S. Attorney Ralph B. Guy.

A Fruehauf spokesman announced that the corporation would appeal the verdict.

"The board is of the opinion the decision is erroneous," he said.

"Trial counsel has advised that the proof introduced by the government in the course of the trial totally failed to establish facts necessary to the government's case."

Although the indictment charged failure to pay excise taxes of more than $12 million, the spokesman said, "The government sought only to prove underpayment of less than $500,000, and in the judgment of counsel failed to prove any underpayment at all."

The indictment alleged the tax evasion took place from Oct. 1, 1956, through Dec. 31, 1965, but the judge's guilty verdict was limited to the calendar year of 1965, plus the fourth quarter of 1964.

At the time of the alleged conspiracy, Grace rose to the position of president and chief executive officer at Fruehauf, while Rowan became vice president-finance.

The spokesman said the company obtained and followed the advice of counsel in planning and carrying out its treatment of taxes.

"Very few cases or published rulings exist to explain the law," he said, "although thousands of unpublished private rulings were issued to individual companies and governed similar conduct in affected industries."

By John Roche

My years in the Johnson White House — which I dubbed the Alamo — may have made me unduly sensitive, if not slightly paranoid, but I confess a couple of recent developments have enraged me. The first was former President Richard Nixon's casual statement that his predecessor, the late Lyndon Johnson, suggested he bug the White House. Johnson allegedly pointed out how useful tapes would be in writing up the history of Nixon's Administration. The Nixon statement has got the right-wing commentators bubbling with joy, their standard line being that their former leader was just doing what Johnson and Kennedy did, that Nixon was set-up by the liberal media.

First on the facts. Of course, Johnson had a taping facility. In this age when telephonic communication has replaced written documents in crisis situations it is arguable that any President who does not have a recorder rigged to his phone should be impeached. If the President gets an alert from the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the Bonari are about to invade Ruritania, he should push the button on his phone before he gives instructions. This way, if he says, "Forget it, they deserve each other," and the Chairman orders Bomar carpet-bombed, there is proof that the military disobeyed instructions.

Johnson had a button on his phone (installed by the White House Communications Agency — a branch of the Army Signal Corps — not by the Secret Service, who are justifiably annoyed when people blame them for the great Nixon network) and used it from time to time. Indeed, the classic story, which is too good to be false, is that when he invited Attorney General Robert Kennedy to the Oval Office to tell him it was no-go for the 1964 Vice Presidency, the tape was running. That evening Col. Jack Albright of the WHCA reported that the tape was undecipherable, that there was some strong electronic interference. L.B.J., the account continues, thought a minute and then broke out in a roar of laughter. "Why that shrewd little +++++ that's why he kept his attache case on his lap!" Bobby had apparently taken preemptive counter-measures.

But to use this as justification for Nixon's characteristic exercise in electronic overkill is preposterous. And unlike Nixon, who is currently contesting a statute that made his papers government property, Johnson turned his over to the Johnson Library which is a Federal Archive. They are under seal, but I'm told take up very little space. The irony here is that L.B.J., very much the extrovert, had a high regard for privacy. Nixon, supposedly the very private man, did everything but bug the toilets.

My second grievance arose as I carefully meandered through the second section of the "Sunday Times" (7-13-75). There, tucked away on page 33, was a story with the following lead: "Data Show Kissinger Had Aide Tapped. Then Urged Him to Stay." It went on to disclose that Kissinger, then National Security Assistant, ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation to wire-tap Morton Halperin as a potential security risk. The fact that this is C.I.A. Summer may account for the placement, but I am convinced that if the year were 1968 and the scenario the same (but the players different), there would have been a front-page lead: "Evidence Shows Rostow Lied."

The can was officially tied on the tail of General Alexander Haig, who apparently delivered the orders to the F.B.I. As I commented at the time, it as a sneaky semantic play: Haig did indeed deliver the messages — which seemingly came from nowhere, even though Haig had been Kissinger's deputy at the relevant time. Now in the course of a lawsuit that Halperin has brought, we learn the flat truth. Anybody for a new Secretary of State?

Tunnel Blast Panel Due

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A special state House committee to investigate the 1971 Port Huron tunnel explosion in which 22 men died could be approved today by the Michigan House. A resolution forming the five-member body was reported Thursday from the House Policy Committee and is set for a vote. Using the deaths as a starting point, the select committee also would investigate the failure of state laws and regulations governing the safety of tunnel workers, said resolution sponsor Rep. David E. Bonior, D-Mount Clemens. "We want to find what was missing in safety then, what changes have happened since and what is needed now," Bonior said. Thursday. Investigative powers of the state labor and public health departments will be examined along with safety policies then in effect, Bonior said.

Regional Health Executive Picked

Paul D. Wulkan of Tucson, Ariz., has been named administrator for an 11-county southwestern Michigan region of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, according to Donald C. Smith, department acting director.

Wulkan, 36, will be responsible for coordinating mental health and mental retardation services in Berrien, Van Buren, Cass, Barry, Calhoun, Branch, Hillsdale, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lenawee and St. Joseph counties, which comprise region II.

The region has 10 community mental health services boards, serving all 11 counties, the Kalamazoo state hospital for mentally ill, and the Coldwater state home and training school.

Wulkan holds a bachelor of arts degree from Augsburg college, Minneapolis, Minn., and a master's degree in social work from the University of Minnesota. The man, police officer Maurice Gates, 29, died Wednesday of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered Monday at the Birmingham House Motel, where he was guarding another witness.

A medical examiner who performed the autopsy said high blood pressure caused the stroke and foul play was not involved.

Dowagiac Man Heads For Trial

CASSOPOLIS — A man charged with leaving the scene of a personal injury accident was bound over to Cass circuit court after he waived preliminary examination on the charge in Fourth district court here yesterday.

David Joel Sanders, 40, route 3, Dowagiac, was ordered to appear in circuit court on Aug. 1 by Judge Steg J. Lignell.

Sanders was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies after Miss Linda Reid, 23, a Dowagiac schools physical education teacher, told deputies a man driving the car which struck her bicycle on Indian Trail road in Silver Creek township on June 18 had driven away after he asked whether she was injured. Miss Reid sustained a compound fracture of her left leg in the accident.

Van Buren Suit Seeks $25,000

PAW PAW — A Gobles woman is seeking $25,000 in damages for injuries her husband received when he allegedly slipped and fell in a Gobles tavern in 1973.

In a lawsuit filed in Van Buren circuit court, Ellen Boyer claimed that her husband, Herbert, suffered severe neck and head injuries after falling in the men's room at Murawski's Tavern, Gobles, on July 8, 1973.

The suit alleged that the defendants, Anthony, Carl, Richard, and Michael Murawski, proprietors of the bar, or their employees served Boyer liquor, causing him to fall.

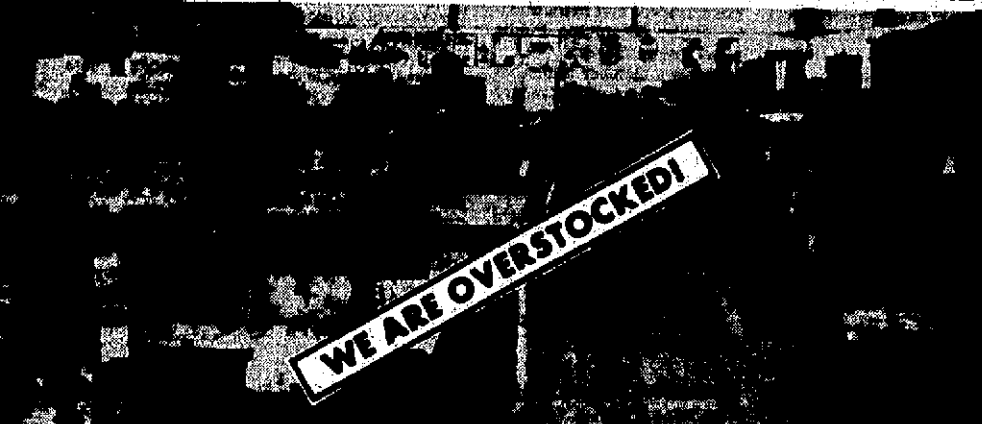

The damages are sought, the suit said, to compensate Mrs. Boyer for her husband's medical expenses, loss of his income, and loss of his help in her operation of a nursing home.

St. Joseph Population Seen Steady To Year 2000

By DICK DERRICK
St. Joseph City Editor

St. Joseph population is estimated at 11,330 and probably won't climb much more than that to the year 2000.

St. Joseph Planning commission members yesterday started working on reviewing the city's master plan by analyzing population and land use figures prepared by Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission personnel.

The work session is the first step in revising the master plan. At least three more such sessions are scheduled, each on the third Thursday of the next three months. The final recommendations will be forwarded to St. Joseph city commission for formal acceptance.

No action was taken yesterday. Planners heard Tom Sinn, director, and James Muldoon, both of the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission which the St. Joseph city commission retained to do the background work on the study.

Sinn said the population figures were researched from the U. S. Census bureau data and R. L. Polk findings for its current city directory.

The population picture Sinn and Muldoon drew for the planners shows St. Joseph with 3,945 households. Also the city has a disproportionately high group of older residents compared to county and state averages.

The percentage of total households with children, the percentage of female headed households and percentage of rental households are below the national average. However, the researchers reported the number of one person households as above the national average.

U. S. census figures show St. Joseph with a 1950 population of 10,223; a 1960 population of 11,755 and a 1970 population of 11,042. The Polk "Profiles of Change" estimates the 1974 population at 11,330 and the planners see that figure remaining static until the year 2000.

The planners divided the city into 14 neighborhoods. Each neighborhood was surveyed as to number of households and its land use. With these figures planners will be able to address themselves to high density population of older neighborhoods and where commercial trends are developing.

The land use statistics show St. Joseph divided into the following categories with the acreage and per cent of the total listed:

Single family residences, 509.25 acres, 25 per cent; two-family, 85 acres or 4.17 per cent; multi-family, 45 acres, 2.21 per cent; commercial (wholesale and retail), 33.5 acres, 1.64 per cent; commercial (professional services), 87.75 acres, 3.32 per cent; industrial, 218 acres, 10.66 per cent; industrial (non-manufacturing), 49 acres, 2.40 per cent; transportation and communication, 36.50 acres, 1.79 per cent; parks, recreation, 94.75 acres, 4.65 per cent; unused space, 358.75 acres, 17.61 per cent; streets and roads, 418.5 acres, 20.54 per cent.

Police In Gobles Complaint Target

GOBLES — The Gobles police department was the target of complaints of some 22 city residents who attended the Gobles city commission meeting last night.

Complaints centered around a street fight the last Friday night in June; a recent rash of thefts; and late night noise.

City commissioners said they will schedule a meeting with Police Chief Harold Beach and his three officers and concerned city residents. No date for the meeting was set last night.

Most of the complaints voiced centered on a melee on Friday, June 27, when an estimated 20 members of a Kalamazoo area motorcycle gang spilled out of a main street tavern in a fight with a local resident.

Several residents alleged that the situation was out of control before sheriff's deputies were called and represented a threat to the safety of Gobles residents.

Windows of a motorized travel home passing through the community at the time were broken out by members of the motorcycle gang, several residents said.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee, who live next to a city park in the heart of the city, complained about late night noise, and William Leversee asked for more police patrols to protect merchants.

Leversee owns and operates a used car lot in the city. He said his lot has been the target of a growing number of thefts.

Beach could not be reached for comment this morning.

In other areas, the commission voted to give $200 to the Pine Grove little league; gave the Disabled Veterans of South Haven permission to offer Forget-Me-Not emblems in the city Aug. 8 and 9; granted permission to Rev. Ray Kajkowski, minister at the Assembly of God, to hold a Bible school parade in the city beginning at 10 a.m. Aug. 2; and said commissioners will contact Michigan Power company about installing coin-operated lights at the city tennis courts.

The commission also authorized the changing of locks for city hall and the library because at least 12 people have keys to present locks.

Claims Job Made Him Alcoholic given special early retirement from Ford in 1970.

The suit charges Ford broke oral and written contracts to continue his employment by failing to help him overcome the drinking problem.

Ford declined to comment on the suit.

The $1.3 million reflects salary Brennan would have received from Ford between 1970 and 1984, when he reaches 65, the normal retirement age, the suit said. He once earned $80,000 a year.

Brennan said his wife and six children forced him to leave them. He lost his $70,000 "dream house," and quit three subsequent jobs for fear of being fired before he kicked the drinking habit in 1972. He is now back with his family.

"I... completely lost, spent (and) drank all of my financial reserves," he said in an affidavit.

Now a resident of Brighton, Brennan said he hasn't had a drink since he went through a 17-day alcoholism treatment program in April 1972.

Brennan said in his early days at Ford's Washington, D.C., office he went to many social meetings where he was "complimented on my ability to consume liquor in large quantities day after day and continue to function normally in business."

After transfers and promotions to New York and Holland, Brennan was transferred to Austria as general manager of Ford operations in 1961.

"It seems I started in 1964 to drink more often alone, mostly at lunchtime and gradually the morning drinking began," Brennan recalled.

He said, "Things came to a head when I made a fool of myself at a European dealers meeting in Dusseldorf in February 1968."

Stafford reported on an experiment which is checking the effect of weightlessness on tiny fish.

"The fish look healthy this morning," he said. "I shot all kinds of pictures of those little rascals."

In the Apollo, the two commanders, Stafford and Lenoir, signed a certificate certifying the international flight and also joined together two halves of a plaque that had been carried up in the separate spacecrafts. The plaque bore the symbol of the flight, two space ships about to dock in space.

On Saturday, the spacecrafts will separate and a second docking will be attempted, this time with Soyuz as the active vehicle. Apollo was active for the initial launch Thursday in a flawless performance.

Then astronauts and cosmonauts will bid a final farewell and Apollo and Soyuz will land.

ys, working on independent experiments. The cosmonauts are to return to earth Monday and the astronauts next Thursday.

Thursday was a day of high drama as spacecrafts of two nations, erstwhile Cold War adversaries, closed in for the landing.

A television camera pointed out the Apollo window gave earthlings a ring-side view as the ships approached and then came together with a slight jar.

"We have succeeded," commander Stafford shouted at the successful dock.

"Good show, Tom," Lenoir said. "Soyuz and Apollo are shaking hands now."

Bill Aimed At Medicaid Abortions

first time the Social Services Department gets billed and refuses to reimburse for an abortion," predicted Kehres.

Fredricks unsuccessfully attempted earlier in the day to shove welfare payments for Aid to Dependent Children down to last year's levels by cutting $54 million from the proposed budget.

That proposal was defeated, 75-30.

A new program, aimed at saving $11 million, would require indigent patients to pay $1 for every doctor visit and $2 every time they use an emergency room for reasons other than a true emergency.

Detroit legislators objected to the $1 and $2 payments, but Kehres said they are necessary to stop persons from visiting a doctor when it isn't necessary.

A companion bill approved 100-4 would establish a round-the-clock watch over child abuse and neglect.

Two related bills also were approved and sent to the Senate. One, approved 95-9, would create a two-year agency to set standards for a comprehensive system of services to juveniles. Another bill, approved 64-40, provides for state takeover of general relief programs within three years, eliminating county participation.

Neighbor's Tip Leads To Arrest

GALLEN — Berrien sheriff's deputies said a neighbor who called police when he heard glass breaking helped in the apprehension of a man charged with breaking and entering.

Deputies reported Jamie D. Sanchez, 33, no permanent address, was booked at the Berrien jail after he was arrested outside the William Able home, Box 264, US-12, Galien township, late Thursday night. The Ables were not at home at the time, deputies said.

PICKETS GONE

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Union teachers at Gogebic Community College have reached a tentative contract agreement with the school have withdrawn picket lines.

Shotgun Blast Wounds Motorist

A Harvey, Ill., man was wounded seriously by a shotgun blast last night, and a suspect was taken into custody on an attempted murder charge, Benton Harbor police reported.

Police said the shooting apparently occurred in the 800 block of Territorial road, and the victim drove about six blocks to a service station at Third and Main streets to seek help.

Wilbur J. Johnson, 32, underwent surgery this morning at Mercy hospital as a result of the shooting. Booked at Berrien county jail on a charge of attempted murder was Vincent J. Robinson, 30, of 927 North Shore drive, Benton township.

According to police, a call about a shooting in the 800 block of Territorial street was received shortly after 11 p.m. Not long after that, police said, another call was received about a wounded man asking for help at the Freeway service station, Third and Main streets.

Police found Johnson there and he was able to say only that he had been shot and give a brief description of his assailant.

Robinson was taken into custody without incident near the scene of the shooting by patrolman James Burgess. A 12-gauge double barrel shotgun was confiscated.

Police have been unable to question Johnson further about the incident, but believe the shooting occurred during an argument. Johnson was shot in the arm and side while in his car, police said, and apparently was able to drive as far as the gasoline station.

Police said it was not known why Johnson was in this area.

BH Woman Is Pulled From Car

A Benton Harbor woman was listed in "serious" condition today at Mercy hospital after a city patrolman pulled her out of a car she was in with the motor left running.

Patrolman John Pagel said the car was found at a parking lot at Empire and Ogden avenues Wednesday morning, locked and the woman inside. He broke a window and she was taken to Mercy hospital.

Police said a neighbor called to report a car left with its motor running most of the night. A note to the woman's family doctor was found inside the car, police indicated.

Police said a bottle of sleeping tablets was found in the car.

Township Approves Computerizing Taxes

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo township board in special session last night approved entering into an interim agreement to join Berrien county's data processing program.

Under the program, all township taxes, both real and personal for 1975, will be computerized. The Berrien county board of commissioners is attempting to implement the program throughout the county.

Cost to New Buffalo township for the first year will be 12 cents for each of the 3,700 parcels of property in the township.

In other areas, the board voted to contract Williams and Works, a Grand Rapids engineering firm, to develop the township's master plan for parks and recreation program.

The board also passed a resolution to enter into a joint agreement with New Buffalo city and Three Oaks village to become a part of the emergency alarm service based at the state police post at New Buffalo.

initiated by a tenant of the building.

The housing commission concluded that the presentation of opinion by candidates could also fall within the realm of another policy covering solicitors and that the endorsement of a tenant to hold the meeting would not be necessary. DeViney was instructed to notify all candidates in the upcoming election that they are free to present their views to the tenants of the 31-unit apartment building.

The commission also instructed DeViney to contact the tenant who had scheduled the original meeting in question and inform her that she was within her right to do so.

NMU Boosts Tuition

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Tuition at Northern Michigan University was boosted by $1.50 per credit hour by the school's trustees Thursday. NMU was forced into the 6 per cent boost, said John X. Jamrich, school president, by inflation and lack of enough state aid. He said even with the tuition increase from the current level of $19 per credit hour, Northern Michigan University tuition charges will remain in the lower third of all state-aided schools in Michigan. But Jamrich warned that unless the NMU appropriation now plugged into the higher education bill under study in the legislature is increased, the Marquette school could fall up to $300,000 below its planned budget in the new school year.

Special Benefits Extended

DETROIT (AP) — Benefits to individuals receiving Special Unemployment Assistance payments have been extended for as long as 13 weeks, the Michigan Employment Security Commission said Thursday. MESC Director Martin Taylor said the new program began July 6 and will extend until Dec. 31, although applications must be made by Aug. 8. The extension, Taylor said, stretches benefits by 50 per cent to the 13-week maximum, and covers persons not included under other programs, such as farm workers and domestics and certain local government employees. Those who believe they are eligible for the extension should go to either their regular SUA or MESC office, Taylor said, as one personal appearance is necessary before the program can begin.

Statewide Manhunt On

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — State Police issued a statewide lookout Thursday for two men wanted for two murders in Battle Creek. Troopers said the two, one of them an escapee from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, are believed armed and considered extremely dangerous. But despite issuing murder warrants for the pair, Calhoun County authorities would not reveal their names. Prosecutor John J. Rae confirmed he issued warrants but when asked about identities of the wanted men said, "Maybe for the moment they should not be revealed." Rae said he did not want to name the men until they are in custody. Troopers said the two sought are a 27-year-old Battle Creek man and a 28-year-old from Detroit. The Detroit also was listed as a prison escapee. Rae said he has no idea why the man was in prison. Both are charged with murdering two Calhoun County social services workers Jan. 21. John Harris, 33, and Robert Moss, 45, were shot in the head with pistols as they sat in a car parked outside the Harris home that night.

Berrien Prepares To Expand County Jail

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Two steps toward a contemplated major expansion of the Berrien county jail were taken Thursday by the county board of commissioners.

Commissioners authorized a $5,000 study of future jail requirements, and approved seeking bids to replace all windows in the cellblock and receiving areas of the jail and to install a new mechanical ventilation system. A limit of $225,000 was set for the windows and ventilating system.

Commissioners Otto Grau and Frank Poorman said the rising rate of crime and arrests in the county has the 1952 jail next to the courthouse filled to capacity or greater most of the time now. The state has given the county advance notice that something must be done, but has not yet served an ultimatum for jail expansion.

They said federal and state jail standards call for one prisoner to a cell, but the Berrien jail sometimes has as many as four in a cell. Even the most hardened prisoners cannot be kept one to a cell, according to Grau.

Both admitted a continuing problem of homosexual attacks in the jail, as result of the overcrowding when the present jail was completed in 1952 it was billed as having a capacity of 224 prisoners. Since then some of the cell areas have been converted to classrooms and other needs, according to Grau who said the capacity figure now would be around 200. The present jail was built at a reported cost of $946,000, and was constructed with provisions for possible addition of a third floor.

They said an expansion of the jail is imperative, but said the form this will take will depend greatly upon the recommendations received from the jail needs study. Lansing Architect Clark R. Ackley was hired to make the study, which is expected to be completed in about six weeks.

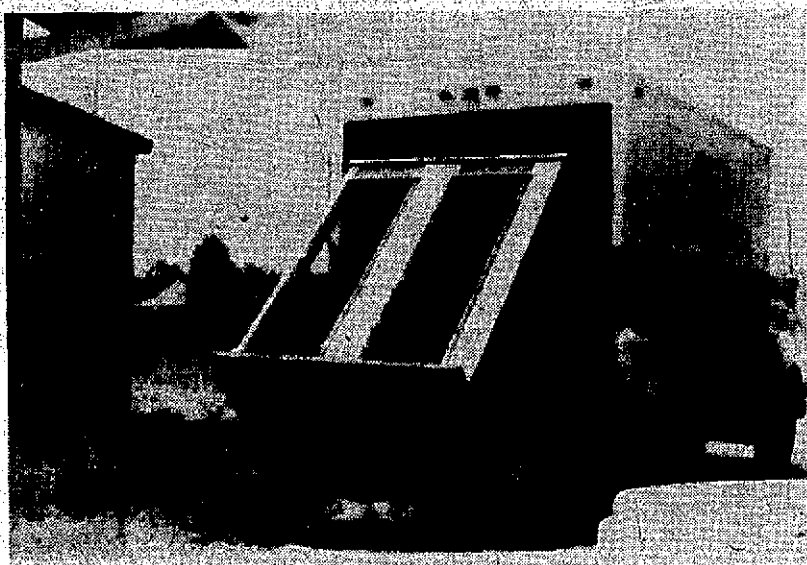

Grau and Poorman indicated that federal grant funds probably would be available for much of the cost of any expansion program. They said they could not even guess, before the jail study is completed, what the expansion costs would run to.

A portion of the federal revenue sharing funds allotted to Berrien county have been earmarked to pay for the installation of all new windows and a new ventilating system in the present jail. In authorizing the administration committee to invite bids, the county board set a limit of $225,000 for the work.

Poorman said the present windows lose two million BTUs of heat annually, and that new insulating windows will recover their cost within five years in the heat they save.

He noted that the new windows and ventilating system will fit into any type of expansion program that will be recommended.

Spare Money Gone; Berrien Goes 'Dieting'

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county board of commissioners yesterday learned the county has drained its contingencies fund half-way through the fiscal year, but is pretty much on target with budget expenditures.

The contingencies fund, basically used for emergencies or expenditures not covered in the budget, had $623,400 when the year began, but an allocation yesterday by the board of $75,000 to the Youth Services

Bureau wiped out remaining resources in the fund.

The depletion will mean some belt-tightening for county offices and programs but does not put the county in any real jeopardy, since revenue-sharing funds can be used for capital improvements or new programs which previously would have been paid for from the contingencies fund, according to Commissioner Kenneth Wendzel.

Wendzel, a member of the board's finance committee, summed up the situation: "Unless a request is an emergency, it's going to be turned down flat."

Wendzel said most of the money in the fund went for salary increases and the county's share of malpractice insurance for Berrien General hospital.

Wendzel also reported $1.8 per cent of the county's $8.7 million budget has been spent or encumbered during the first six months of the year, which he noted was about the same percentage as in previous years.

"I think we're in real good shape budget-wise," Wendzel stated, noting: "I feel we can end the year in the black again."

The board also formalized previous sentiments to "pass the buck" back to the state and have the state construction code commission accept responsibility for implementing the Michigan Construction Code for local units of government in the county which have not adopted the code.

A state act requires counties to enforce the code in units which do not adopt provisions of the code, but with no reimbursement to the counties.

County Planning Director Charles Eckenshahler told commissioners all local units in the county have adopted building codes under the act, but about six units indicated they won't adopt the plumbing code portion.

Commissioner Frank Poorman added the county can reverse its action if it does not approve of the way the state enforces the code.

The board also adopted rules drawn up by the parks and recreation commission and road commission governing two county parks—Rocky Gap park and a roadside park off US-33 in Hagar township.

The rules prohibit alcoholic beverages, littering, and glass containers inside the parks, require dogs to be on leashes, and set park hours from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The board also referred to the affairs committee a letter from Montmorency county asking Berrien if it wished to join a class-action suit against the state tax commission regarding establishment of equalized valuations by the commission over the protests of 23 counties which requested reductions.

The letter indicated Montmorency county is considering filing one suit in state court and another in federal court. Montmorency county was instrumental in an initial fight against the tax commission when a judge granted an injunction against the commission, at the request of Montmorency county, to stay the setting of valuations. The injunction was later overturned and the commission set valuations for all Michigan counties.

Stevensville Denies Industrial Tax Cut

A request by Cast-Matic corporation of Stevensville for a 50 per cent 12-year property tax reduction on a $430,000 addition was denied by the Stevensville village council last night.

The council, in a 3 to 2 vote, opposed the tax cut that would save the firm approximately $2,700 a year for a 100 by 100-foot addition now under construction on Yassick drive.

The council agreed to meet July 24 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a tax relief program over a shorter period of time.

Opposing the tax relief were council members Richard Kramer, Donald DeMorrow and William Heyn Jr. Approving the measure were B.W. Yassick and Charles Kerlikowske. Council member Lloyd Mallett was absent.

This is the first industrial tax reduction request that has been denied in the county.

Those opposing the request said they were in favor of some sort of tax relief for the firm, but for a shorter period of time.

In other areas, the council voted to notify owner of the Paris Flea market, Red Arrow highway, which burned down June 1, to begin removal of the fire debris within two weeks.

The council agreed that work is to be completed by Aug. 17 or it will be done by the village at the owner's expense.

The council tabled for further study a decision on requests for variances of zoning and the village sign ordinance requested from Richard Pallas and Mike Sams, 5357 St. Joseph avenue. The residents asked to operate a macrame and hand-carved wood products business in their rented home located in a residential area.

John Sekol, owner of the Lakeshore Estates, a mobile home park on Johnson road, was denied a request to close the park's Johnson road entrance to thru traffic. Council members said it would make the St. Joseph avenue entrance a traffic hazard.

In a related item, Sekol told the council he has met with park residents and "everything has been taken care of to the best of my knowledge."

Sekol was notified by the council last month that some 30 park residents had complained to the council about the park's management.

It was voted to reserve $1,000 of a $34,180 payment to the John G. Yerington company of Benton Harbor for the blacktopping of several village streets until corrections are made.

Allegan To Show Off New Welfare Center

ALLEGAN — Open house at the one-time controversial Dumont lake building for the health and social services departments will begin at 2 p.m., Saturday.

State Social Services Director John Dempsey will be the main speaker.

The new building, slowed by a lawsuit and a zoning dispute, for the first time brings the county's health and social services departments under one roof.

The building of about 27,000 square feet, cost about $1 million, including furnishings, according to Harold Leep, Allegan county director of social services.

The construction was first approved by the Allegan county commissioners in June, 1973. It is located about three miles north of Allegan, on Dumont lake.

In 1974, construction was slowed by a circuit court suit aimed at blocking construction. A group of Allegan residents claimed a decision to erect the building should have been put to a county-wide vote. The group also claimed the building would damage Dumont lake and the surrounding area.

After the suit was dismissed, construction was temporarily halted by a required zoning change by Allegan township authorities.

The project is being financed by county federal revenue sharing funds from the last several years.

Wright's Method Was Right

After Johnny Wright's station wagon was stolen and recovered three days ago, he took precautions against further theft. He removed the ignition coil.

Thieves Tuesday got about four blocks from Wright's home at 864 East Vineyard street, before abandoning the car, Benton Harbor police said. Yesterday, they got just 75 feet when they pushed the car in an apparent try to start it.

Wright told police someone stole a set of keys from his home several weeks ago and police advised him to have the ignition lock changed.

SET UP FAIR: Workers from Michiana Tent company, Bristol, Ind., work on erecting tents in preparation for Van Buren Youth fair. Fairgrounds are located at CR-681 and Red Arrow highway, three miles east of Hartford.

POSSIBLE BUILDING: Pole-frame metal building for Van Buren county sheriff's posse has been erected at Van Buren youth fairgrounds between Lawrence and Hartford. Building is 36 by 72 feet, cost about $6,200 and was paid for by posse through fees earned for services. Posse will stable horses in building during youth fair and when interior is completed, will use it for meetings. (George Swift photo)

Campbell Denies Report Of Tiger, Boston Shift To NL

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell threw cold water Thursday on a report the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox might move to the National League.

"It's ridiculous," Campbell said from his Detroit home. "We're American Leaguers and we intend to stay in the American League. The whole thing was a joke by some one in Milwaukee."

Campbell said the subject never came up formally at the owners meeting, held Wednesday and Thursday in Milwaukee, although it was passed around casually in a lobby.

"There's just no truth to that at all," he said.

"Somebody was kidding. I won't say who it was, but a National League guy was kidding a friend of his from the American League and said: 'We'll take Boston and Detroit'."

However, The Associated Press in Milwaukee learned the subject of such a switch came up more than once during the meetings.

The agreement among the 24 major league baseball clubs setting up the National and American circuits expires next year, and it was learned at least several NL officials talked about the possibility of shifting the Red Sox and the Tigers to the National League if a new alignment could be worked out.

"We would like to have the Red Sox and the Tigers in our league," several National League people were reported as saying both in the closed meetings and outside in private discussions.

Among those known to have talked about the matter, according to knowledgeable baseball sources, were National League President Charles S. "Chub" Feeney; Donald S. Grant, president of the New York Mets; and John McHale, president of the Montreal Expos. The source gave various reasons for the National League's attraction with the Boston and Detroit franchises, including attendance of the two teams and the managements of both the Tigers and the Red Sox, who have very few problems.

The major league rules committee would have the first say on any re-alignment, and presumably, like most other changes in the sport, it would require affirmative votes from at least nine teams in each league to pass.

These particular discussions, so it was said, did not mention splitting the 24 teams into three leagues, which has been talked about at various times in the past.

A spokesman for the Red Sox was asked Thursday night in Boston about the report and his comment was: "Anything is possible, but it does not seem probable at this time."

It could not be learned which teams were mentioned as those the NL would like shift to the American League if the event of a realignment.

BACKROOM BARGAINING SAVES JOB

Kuhn Given New Contract

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The vote was 22-2, but it was the closest 22-2 vote you'll ever see. By virtue of baseball's sometimes-mysterious by-laws, Bowie Kuhn came perilously close to being ousted as commissioner Thursday even though a vast majority of the owners were satisfied with the job he has done since taking office in February 1968.

The quirk was the rule that requires the commissioner to have a minimum of nine votes in each league. Kuhn had that and more in the National League where his support was led by influential Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers. But he had only eight votes in the American, one short of the number he needed for re-election.

Besides Oakland and Baltimore, outspoken opponents of the commissioner, the New York Yankees and Texas Rangers also had voted against him when the matter came up at the AL meeting a day earlier.

As it turned out, it was a good thing for Kuhn that the AL opposition surfaced when it did. The AL vote was unofficial — more a feeling-out to see what the sentiment of the owners was.

Had the matter not come up in that manner, a formal vote might have been called at the joint meeting, before Kuhn's supporters had time to change any minds. And if the first vote taken had been a formal one, Kuhn would be on his way back to Wall Street today instead of enjoying the security of a new seven-year contract as commissioner.

When it learned of the AL sentiment, the NL owners asked if the Americans would reconsider the matter and vote again. The request was refused. The AL indicated its mind was made up. The owners would, however, agree to table the matter since no decision really had to be made until next February, six months before the expiration of Kuhn's first term.

But Kuhn wouldn't sit still for that. The commissioner said he would have resigned had the owners moved in that direction. But for a time, it seemed that tabling the question would be the only way Kuhn's supporters could prevent him from being ousted.

Then the backroom bargaining began. The minds of the New York and Texas clubs changed and overnight, the four negative votes were reduced to two.

"I think the voting procedure leaves something to be desired," said Kuhn of the rule that permits a minority to have its way. "If the commissioner does his job, he steps on some toes. I hope the rule will be changed, not for my sake, but for future commissioners."

The reason Kuhn's job was saved was the realization of the problems that the owners face in the area of franchises and player negotiations. The feeling was that baseball needed an experienced hand at the helm during these difficult times. But because their two-day meeting was so totally occupied with the commissioner's re-election, the owners made no progress in solving any of their other sticky problems.

Texas was the first to switch, inside informants reported.

Mel Snyder, a stand-in for Ranger owner Brad Corbett, changed his mind. It was learned, when Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, asked him: "Okay, if you don't want Kuhn, then who is your candidate for commissioner? If he's good enough, we'll start lining up votes for him."

And that's all that was needed. Kuhn's supporters had their nine votes in the AL.

It didn't matter how Paul Cunningham—the Yankees' "designated owner" during the two-year suspension by Kuhn of George Steinbrenner, the team's actual owner—voted.

Cunningham apparently decided to go with the majority and in the final vote on Kuhn's re-election, only Baltimore and Oakland stood firm in opposition to the commissioner.

Oakland owner Charles O. Finley wasn't shy about discussing the matter.

"I am not embarrassed at all to state that the Oakland A's were one of the two teams that cast votes not to re-elect Bowie Kuhn as commissioner," the fiery Finley said.

Finley had two angry exchanges with Kuhn after the vote. The first came when the commissioner thanked the owners for their support and made a remark about "the quality of the opposition." Finley said that AL President Lee MacPhail had been instructed by his league owners to send a letter to Kuhn, protesting that comment.

Later, Kuhn virtually ordered Finley to leave a conference room where the commissioner was meeting with newsmen. "Thank-you, Mr. Commissioner," snapped the A's boss. "Just shows me more class."

The two exchanges indicated that despite Kuhn's new pact, there will be no peace between Finley and the commissioner. However, for the moment, at least, Kuhn has emerged on top of the power struggle. One baseball executive summed it up succinctly, saying:

"The men in the white hats won and the man in the green hat lost."

Meanwhile, it was gked that some informal talks about realignment next year, when the pact which formally sets up the two 12-team leagues expires, were held during the Milwaukee sessions.

At least three National League figures, including NL President Charles S. "Chub" Feeney, were reported to have said they'd like to have the Boston and Detroit franchises in the NL. It wasn't known what two franchises they'd give to the American League in exchange.

While the idea of such a switch may sound far-fetched, it was completely rejected by O'Connell of the Red Sox, who said, when asked for comment Thursday night in Boston: "Anything is possible, but it does not seem probable at this time."

Detroit, Chicago Battle To Double-Header Draw Wood Pitches Two-Hit Shutout In Opener

CHICAGO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers made one mistake Thursday night and it cost them a chance at a doubleheader victory.

"But, I guess, nothing changes about doubleheaders," said Tiger Manager Ralph Houk. "It seems as if we're always splitting them."

Yet we did nothing but hit line drives in that first game and then we make one error and lose."

The Tigers dropped the first game of a two-night doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox 4-0 in the two-hit shutout pitching of Wilbur Wood, and then they came back to grab the nightcap 9-1 as Aurelio Rodriguez drove in four runs with a double and a single and Mickey Stanley rapped out three hits, and scored three runs.

Except for some brilliant defensive work by second baseman Gene Michael, the nightcap was strictly dullsville after the Tigers jumped ahead 3-0 in the top of the first inning. Wood and Mickey Lolich hooked up in the opener and except for the third inning when the Sox scored four unearned runs, it would have been a dead game.

Wood, getting brilliant support, gave up a two-out single to Ron LeFlore in the third inning and a two-out single to Jack Pierce in the eighth.

Lolich, except for the third inning, gave up only one harmless hit to Deron Johnson with two out in the fifth.

Bill Stein opened the Chicago third with a single, the first hit off Lolich. Brian Downing then reached when shortstop Tom Verzer bobbed his ground ball for an error.

Lolich retired the next two men but Ken Henderson singled home one run. Bill Melton drove in two more with a single and Carlos May knocked in the other.

Lolich dropped to 10-7 while Wood picked up his eighth triumph against 13 losses.

Wood was working quickly and said that was one of the reasons his defense was so alert.

"They knew I was going to throw and they were ready," said Wood. "It's not so much that I pitched a two-hitter but that they prevented any more than two hits. The Henderson play was great."

Not only was it great but somewhat comical. Willie Horton hit a fly ball to left center and Jerry Hairston started coming in for the ball. Suddenly, center-fielder Ken Henderson took off and finally made a leaping catch as he bounced off the wall. There was a gasp from the crowd, since most people were looking for Hairston to make the catch.

Except for Michael's brilliant play and the steady, seven-hit pitching of Lerrin LaGrew, 7-8, the second game was over early. The Tigers took their firstgame frustrations out on Claude Osteen, 5-7, and kayoed him before he could get the game's second out.

Rodriguez jumped on his successors, getting a bases-loaded single off Dan Osborn in the third and a two-run double off Bill Gogolewski in the fifth.

Michael, however, kept it interesting. He started two lightning-like double plays, had seven assists and two put-outs.

"He was a helluva pickup for us," said Houk. "The Yankees released him and we grabbed him. I always liked him. He can play short, second or third. He knows how to play and really can move the ball."

The two teams will go at it tonight with Jim Kaut, 13-6, facing Detroit's Vern Riffe, 8-5.

LEFLORE NABBED: Ron LeFlore of the Detroit Tigers is tagged by Chicago White Sox shortstop Bucky Dent as he attempts to steal second in the third inning of the first game Thursday night at White Sox Park. Dent got the throw from catcher Brian Downing. LeFlore was injured in the first game with a strained right knee and is expected to miss tonight's contest. White Sox won first game Thursday 4-0 but the Tigers took the nightcap 9-1. (AP Wirephoto)

ND Reinstates Five Gridders

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — University of Notre Dame officials have reinstated five of six football players suspended a year ago after an 18-year-old woman alleged she was raped in a campus dormitory.

"After reviewing the case and meeting with the young men, it was decided the purpose of the suspension had been served," said university spokesman Dick Conklin.

Criminal charges never were filed. "As far as the university was concerned, the incident never was a criminal matter," Conklin added.

None of the six could be reached for comment.

Roy Henry, a quarterback from New Orleans, did not reappear at Notre Dame. He plans to attend Southwestern Louisiana, sources said.

One of the five returning, defensive end Ross Browner of Warren, Ohio, was permitted to enroll in summer school June 23 to make up academic credits that might otherwise affect his football eligibility.

The others will be on campus when football practice starts Aug. 22, but won't enroll until the fall session. The others are safety Luther Bradley of Muncie, Ind., halfback Al Hunter of Greenville, N.C., Dan Knott of Chowchilla, Calif., and Willie Fry, a defensive end from Memphis.

All will be sophomores academically and athletically, and they should bolster an Irish squad hit hard by graduations.

The players' grants in aid were restored, Conklin said, but they will remain on "conduct probation" until graduation. Any further serious violation of university rules would result in almost automatic suspension, Conklin said.

Conklin had no comment on whether former football coach Ara Parseghian had anything to do with the return of the players. Parseghian had pleaded against the suspensions but to no avail. He resigned after the season but refused to blame the suspensions.

He said the suspensions were among many things which left him "mentally exhausted and physically drained."

Without the six, four of whom would have been defensive starters, the Irish had an up-and-down season.

Now Coach Dan Devine said he would see how the five would fit into his plans for this fall.

"I haven't seen them on the field yet," he said.

Tigers' LeFlore Injures Knee

CHICAGO (AP) — Detroit Tiger centerfielder Ron LeFlore strained his right knee Thursday and is expected to miss tonight's game with the Chicago White Sox.

The Tigers said LeFlore pulled knee ligaments in the opening game of a doubleheader Thursday when he ran for first base, began slowing down after passing the bag, and twisted the knee as he stepped on the outfield grass.

X-rays were planned today but LeFlore is not expected to miss more than two games, the Tigers said.

Nastase Playing In Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO — The Nastase and Vitus Gerulaitis will play an exhibition tennis match for the USTA National Boys' 18 and 16 Tennis Championships at Kalamazoo College's Stowe Tennis Stadium.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. match on Monday, August 4, include $6 reserved seats and $4.50 general admission.

Meanwhile, rightfielder Danny Meyer will be out for at least another week due to a hairline fracture in his left foot. Meyer strained the foot July 9, and the Tigers speculated he favored the foot too much, causing the slight break to develop. It does not require a cast.

Ben Ogilvie is expected to play in rightfield, as he did in both games Thursday, with Mickey Stanley replacing LeFlore.

Hersh Drops Houk Charges

BALTIMORE (AP) — Phil Hersh of the Baltimore Evening Sun said Thursday night he will drop criminal assault charges against Detroit Manager Ralph Houk, who forcibly ejected the sports writer from the Tigers' locker room in Baltimore on June 27.

Hersh said he had received a written apology from Houk, who had reportedly slapped Hersh and dragged him out of the clubhouse. The incident occurred after Houk summoned Hersh to dispute a story which had appeared in the newspaper earlier that day.

Hersh said he will formally drop the charges in court Sept. 24 when Houk was due to appear to answer the assault charge during the Tigers' next visit to Baltimore.

"I was very upset about your story," Houk wrote in his letter of apology, "but I admit this did not justify the physical means which I used in ejecting you from the Detroit clubhouse."

Copies of the letter were sent to the Baseball Writers' Association of America, which had protested Houk's action, and to baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and American League President Lee MacPhail.

MacPhail fined Boston Red Sox player Doug Griffin in a similar recent incident—Griffin jostled a writer from the Boston Globe—but had deferred action on the Houk matter pending the outcome of the court case.

In a written statement, Hersh said he had taken legal action against Houk "because I feel that no working journalist need be subjected to this sort of treatment and in the hope that the attention focused on Mr. Houk would serve as a warning that writers will not let such attempts at intimidation go unanswered."

Hersh said he felt that goal had been accomplished and he was willing "to let baseball authorities resolve the case from this point."

By dropping the charges, Hersh said, "I am acting in good faith with Mr. MacPhail's assurance that this matter will be handled as swiftly and forcefully as it would have been in the courtroom."

TROPHY WINNER: Doug Griffin, 20, formerly of St. Joseph, recently won trophy as western champion of National Consumers Products golf tournament sponsored by Shell Oil Co. at Pebble Beach, Cal. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hildebrand, who lived at 518 Wayne street, St. Joseph, before moving to Chico, Cal., 15 years ago. Hildebrand also finished third nationally, only one stroke out of a first-place tie. A junior at Chico State College, he competed against some 100 regional winners at the Pebble Beach tournament.

Montreal, Rogers Snap Reds' Streak

Cubs Hold On To Edge Padres

From Associated Press
If we play like we did tonight, Cincinnati's Pete Rose observed, "the Dodgers have a great chance."
Fal chance.

What the Cincinnati Reds did Thursday night was quite unusual, though. They lost a game. Not only that, but they didn't score a run.

But Montreal did. Pepe Mangual and Pete Mackanin hit homers while Steve Rogers and Dale Murray baffled the Reds on seven hits in the Expos' 3-0 victory, snapping Cincinnati's 10-game winning streak.

So now the Reds have won ONLY 19 of their last 22 games and 41 of their last 51.

Everybody should have such worries.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have plenty of them. With a chance to put at least a nick in the Reds' mammoth 12½-game lead in the National League West, they blew it, losing 5-2 to Pittsburgh, which retained its ½-game edge over Philadelphia in the East. The Phillies beat Houston 6-5 in 11 innings. New York defeated Atlanta 4-3. St. Louis nosed out San Francisco 1-0 and Chicago edged San Diego 6-5 in the rest of the league.

Rogers checked the blistering Reds on five hits and struck out seven before leaving the game with a blister on his pitching hand. Jack Billingham gave up only six hits in six innings — but two of them were the homers by Mangual leading off the bottom of the first and by Mackanin with one out in the fifth. The Expos' other run came in the sixth on a single by Larry Parrish.

Dave Parker's two home runs and Willie Stargell's solo shot, all off Andy Messersmith, gave Pittsburgh its sixth victory in the last seven games.

Larry Bowa's alert base-running that forced Houston into an untimely error carried the Phillies past the Astros.

He singled in the 11th inning, then moved to second on Jay Johnstone's sacrifice bunt — and kept on moving to third on the play. Second baseman Larry Milbourne, covering first at the moment, threw wildly past third and the Bowa steamed home with the winning run.

The Mets, trailing 3-0, tied things up in a hurry in the sixth inning when Ed Kranepool singled and Rusty Staub homered off Phil Niekro — and, on the next pitch, Dave Kingman also homered. Then Joe Torre's eighth-inning homer off Tom House beat the Braves.

St. Louis' Ted Simmons ended a scoreless battle with a two-out double in the ninth inning to beat the Giants. Jim Barr, who had shut out the Cardinals in his two previous starts against them, gave up Lou Brock's single before Simmons lined his double to left.

Manny Tello drove in three runs and the Chicago Cubs withstood a two-run ninth to beat the San Diego Padres 6-5 Thursday night.

The Cubs scored five runs in the first three innings off loser Brent Strom, 5-3, driving him from the mound.

Rick Monday's bases-empty homer featured a two-run rally in the second inning and Tello's two-run single climaxed a three-run rally in the third.

Winner Rick Reuschel, 6-10, lost a shutout in the second inning when Randy Hundley hit a two-run homer, giving the Padres a temporary 2-2 tie.

The Padres scored a run off the right-hander in the eighth on a triple by Tito Fuentes and a grounder by Bobby Tolan, then came back with two in the ninth on RBI singles by Mike Ivie and John Grubb before reliever Darold Knowles put out the fire.

Happy Homer For Oriole

Light-Hitting Hendricks Slugs Game Winner

From Associated Press
Ellie Hendricks gave it his best shot — then gave it his best shot.

Baltimore's unlikely hero hit a rare game-winning home run Thursday night, then celebrated with a hand-clapping romp around the bases.

"I don't know if I got all of the ball, but I got enough," said the jubilant Hendricks after his three-run blast in the 12th inning led the Orioles to a 6-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Hendricks, a .176 hitter for the Orioles the last three years, was as surprised as anyone that the ball went out.

"I figured I hit it too high and I was mad because I didn't hit it better," said Hendricks.

Before Hendricks smashed Bill Campbell's 1-1 pitch into the right field seats, the pitcher had a conference with third baseman Eric Soderholm. This surprised Hendricks, too.

He turned to catcher Glenn Borgmann at the time — and quipped:

"Would you tell 'Soup' Campbell to look at my average. They're not getting me out on trick pitches. Everybody just throws it down the middle, and I take it from there."

In the other American League games, the California Angels beat the Milwaukee Brewers 6-1; the Chicago White Sox blanked the Detroit Tigers 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 9-1; the Boston Red Sox beat the Kansas City Royals 8-3; the Oakland A's trimmed the Cleveland Indians 6-3 and the Texas Rangers turned back the New York Yankees 7-2.

Hendricks' game-winning hit came with two out in the 12th, making it all the more dramatic.

With one away, Bobby Grich drew a walk from Campbell, 2-5, and Tommy Davis singled. After Doug DeCinces popped out, Hendricks planted his fourth home of the year into the right field seats.

Dave Chalk's two-run homer capped a three-run sixth inning and Morris Nettles singled home two more in the seventh, leading California over Milwaukee, 8-5.

Designated hitter Cecil Cooper hit a home run, triple and double and drove in four runs, leading Boston over Kansas City. The victory was the eighth straight for the Red Sox and improved their lead in the American League West to 5½ games over both the Milwaukee Brewers and New York Yankees.

A double by Billy Williams and singles by Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace and Sal Bando scored three third-inning runs that helped Oakland stop Cleveland. Ferguson Jenkins pitched a three-hitter and Jeff Burroughs drove in three runs to lead Texas over New York.

Franklin Signs Lion Pact

Dallas Trades Bob Hayes To San Francisco

DETROIT (AP) — Dennis Franklin, who led Michigan to two Big Ten co-championships but narrowly missed a pair of Rose Bowls, has signed a contract with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Franklin played quarterback with the Wolverines but is expected to be used as a wide receiver by the Lions. He is to report, along with about 50 other rookies, to the Lions' training camp which begins Sunday at Oakland University.

"I'm looking forward to playing," Franklin said. "And as far as what position I'll play, I'll play anywhere the coaches want me and where they feel I can help the team."

It was reported Franklin originally was unhappy with the prospect of moving from the quarterback slot.

"Dennis is a very talented athlete who could help us at one of several positions," said Coach Rock Forzano. "He is a winner."

Contract terms were not disclosed.

Michigan tied Ohio State for the Big Ten football championships in the last two seasons, but each time the Buckeyes got the Rose Bowl nod. Franklin suffered a broken bone in the final game of the 1973 season, when league athletic directors voted to send Ohio State, Woody Hayes and his crew got the nod again last year after beating Michigan, although both teams had identical records.

In other NFL developments, veteran Bob Hayes, once the world's fastest man, was traded by Dallas Wednesday to the San Francisco 49ers and probably will arrive in Santa Barbara, Calif., on Saturday to begin workouts with the 49ers.

The Cowboys will get an undisclosed 1976 draft choice for Hayes, a one-time world record-holder in the 100-yard dash who has been in the National Football League 10 years, all with Dallas.

Asked if there was anything he would have done differently in his career with the Cowboys, Hayes said: "I'd have been out of Dallas a lot sooner ... I'm just like a used car. Wherever they send me, I have to go."

Hayes' best season was in 1966 when he caught 64 passes for 1,232 yards and 13 touchdowns, helping the Cowboys to their first NFL Eastern Conference championship. But last year the speedster, now 32, caught just seven passes in a reserve role behind Golden Richards.

Meanwhile, Duane Thomas, veteran running back who became a free agent May 1, probably will arrive in Washington sometime today to begin talks with the Redskins about his reinstatement.

In Chester, Pa., at the Philadelphia Eagles' training camp, five players required hospitalization on Thursday because of heat and high humidity.

Willie Callars, a second-year defensive end, was treated after he had heat cramps in morning workouts. Four other players were treated after afternoon practice.

Several NFL teams waived, cut, traded or were involved in various other player transactions.

The Detroit Lions signed Mike Flater, the leading scorer for the Denver Broncos of the North American Soccer League, to a one-year contract as a kicking specialist.

The Miami Dolphins waived

free agents Herbert Harris and Nate Holmes; the San Diego Chargers waived veteran wide receiver Dave Smith; the New York Jets cut veteran defensive back Eric Washington and three rookies after they failed their physical examinations; veteran offensive tackle Bill Sandeman of the Atlanta Falcons retired, and veteran Pittsburgh running back Steve Davis is expected to retire.

As of today, 19 NFL teams have begun training camp — 10 in the American Conference and nine in the National Conference. Houston and New England begin their rookie camps and veterans start training for Kansas City and San Francisco today.

State Girl Leading

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — Ila Hill of Troy, Mich., leads the women's competition in the U.S. International Shooting championships with a 93.

Her lead is a narrow one, as Connie Hoyle of Poway, Calif., trails with 91.

Two near-perfect scores of 99 were posted by two old-time skeet shooters in the men's competition, Robert Schuehle, Chicago, and John Satterwhite, Kirkland, Wash., each had perfect rounds before missing their last targets of the first round.

Five other shooters are two points back at 97. Schuehle is the silver medalist in the 1971 Pan American Games. Satterwhite is a member of the 1974 U.S. team to the world shooting championship.

The top four finishers in the tournament will be named to the U.S. team to the Pan American Games in Mexico City next October.

NL And Priebe Have Big Inning

Mike Priebe knocked in four runs in the third inning to lead North Lincoln to a 10-0, five-inning blasting of East division leader Paw Paw in last night's Connie Mack action.

In the only Blue-Gray contest, St. Joseph Legion nipped Lakeshore Mack 2-1.

The win upped North Lincoln's record to 9-5, just one game back of West leader Benton Heights. Priebe started off a nine-run inning with a two-run homer and ended the scoring in the inning with a single that scored a pair.

Sandwiched between Priebe's fireworks was a walk to Barry Coburn that forced in a run, an error scored two more and Dave Baker had two RBI's with a double.

North Lincoln got its other run in the second on Steve Ross' single.

Mickey Olt got the win and Rod Austin was tagged with the loss. Paw Paw now drops to a 9-2 mark.

Losing pitcher Mike Mason drove home the game's first run in the second with a double. The Lakeshore lead didn't last too long as Mike Collier tied it up in the third with a sacrifice fly. Scott Wolf drove in the winning run in the sixth with a double.

Kit Karsten got the win for St. Joe which is now 8-8. Lakeshore ends the season with a 3-15 mark.

Carnegie To Europe With WMU Cagers

KALAMAZOO — Western Michigan University's basketball team will play eight games in Europe beginning in mid-August and former Lake Michigan Catholic player Dave Carnegie will be part of the 12-man squad.

Carnegie led the Bronco junior varsity team last season in rebounding with a 10.7 average. He also had a 10.4 points-per-game average. On the varsity, the sophomore played in six contests, scoring six points and snaring five rebounds.

The Broncos will leave for their first stop, Finland, Aug. 12 and will return Sept. 3. Other games will be played in Rome and San Marino, Italy and in Switzerland, where Western will face the Swiss National team.

The trip is being financed with private donations and money raised by the players.

Hung Jury Possible In Forbes Trial

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A jury weighing the fate of Boston Bruins hockey player David Forbes failed to reach a verdict in more than seven hours of deliberations Thursday, raising the possibility of a hung jury and a second trial.

Jurors were to resume deliberations at 8:30 a.m., CDT. Forbes, 26, is charged with aggravated assault as the result of an attack on the Minnesota North Stars' Henry Bouchia last Jan. 4.

The trial, moving into its ninth day today, has made sports history in the United States because Forbes is the first pro athlete to face criminal charges for actions in a sports contest.

Jurors began their consideration of the case Thursday afternoon after final summations from attorneys and instructions on Minnesota law from Judge Rolf Fosseen.

Defense attorney Ron Meshbeker told jurors it was a "home town" prosecution, brought because it was a Minnesota player who was injured.

"I submit to you that had this man been wearing a different colored uniform that night, he would not be sitting behind the counsel table and undergoing the agony of a trial," Meshbeker said.

The prosecutor, Hennepin County Atty. Gary Flakne, argued that the incident was not one of the usual fights that are part of hockey.

"It was not a fight. On the contrary, it was an unprovoked attack by one person on another," Flakne said.

"This was an assault. It was not a fight... a crime is a crime no matter where it occurs."

The jury returned at mid-afternoon for a second reading of the law on assault, but there was no explanation. Under Minnesota law, jurors could find Forbes innocent, guilty of aggravated assault or guilty of simple assault.

The more serious charge would require a finding that Forbes had used his stick as a "dangerous weapon." Conviction carries a penalty of up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. A simple assault is a misdemeanor, punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $300 fine.

There was no indication of how the jury was split, but the length of the deliberations was a surprise to many court observers. If the case ends in a hung jury — meaning no unanimous agreement — there could be a second trial.

Wintu Indian Curl Tops Pleasant Valley Classic

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — "Circle the wagons."

That happy cry, a salute and compliment to the little Wintu warrior, is going up on the pro golf tour again.

Rod Curl's fellow tourists began figuratively putting up their defenses Thursday after the 5-foot-5, three-quarters Wintu Indian romped in with a bold, five-under-par 66 and the first round lead in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic.

"It takes a long time to come back," the delighted Curl observed after he'd mastered the muggy heat that hung, wet and heavy, over the 7,119-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

"I'd been crippled up with tendonitis in my left wrist from August until January. I really

Minors Depressing For Tony Conigliaro

Injuries Hamper Former Star

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A decade ago Tony Conigliaro was a baseball star, his sizzling swing having socked 104 home runs in less than four seasons with the Boston Red Sox.

Today, after a 1967 injury at the plate and numerous comeback attempts, the 30-year-old outfielder shares dingy locker rooms and long bus rides with another Red Sox team — Boston's Pawtucket farm squad.

"I figured AAA was just a notch below the majors," he said in the locker room of the Charleston Charlies before a game this week. "It isn't. It's depressing."

In the game that followed, his team lost 2-0 to the Charlies before 762 persons. Conigliaro stepped to the plate four times, but was unable to muster a hit.

The Revere, Mass., native was playing with the Boston Red Sox at the age of 18, the fans adoring his hitting prowess. But on Aug. 19, 1967, a pitch fractured his cheekbone and damaged his eyesight.

Although he tried twice to return to the major leagues, he was forced to give up and return to his motel and nightclub businesses.

Then, last year, "somehow the hole in my eye closed. It healed. And, my eyesight returned to 20/20," he recalled. "I decided to give baseball another try. I had to."

The Red Sox gave Conigliaro another chance. But he pulled a groin muscle and batted a measly .120. Boston gave him a choice: quit or go to Pawtucket.

Now he's hitting about .240 with two homers, but he has a promise that Boston will call him up for the last month of the season.

"I'm satisfied with that. I know I can still play. I can still swing the bat," he said. "I can understand the Red Sox situation. They've got guys up there who are really hitting the ball."

But his old fame follows him to International League cities such as Charleston, Memphis and Syracuse.

"It's tough. They (fans) steal everything that has my name on it. I've lost gloves and hats. I don't have a thing of my own anymore. I've even had to take my name off my traveling bag. That's funny."

Slim Lead For Rankin

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — "Seconds aren't all that bad," insists Judy Rankin, a perennial runner-up on the women's golf circuit this year.

But she had no complaints about being the leader of the U.S. Women's Open after the first round Thursday.

Miss Rankin, 30, toured the 8,165-yard Atlantic City Country Club course in even par 72 to hold a one-stroke edge over two pros and 18-year-old amateur Nancy Lopez of Roswell, N.M.

The course, hosting the Women's Open for the third time since 1948, gave fits to the pros and amateurs alike in the field of 155. Miss Rankin was four strokes over par after five holes before battling back.

Tied with Miss Lopez at 73 were JoAnne Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., and Judy Kimbrell of North Platte, Neb.

Sandra Haynie, the defending Open champion, was knotted at 74 with Sandra Burns and Sandra Post, while six more pros carded 75.

Carol Mann, who won the Open here in 1965, staggered to an 84 after shooting six bogeys and a double bogey on the front nine.

The raven-haired Miss Lopez, a former U.S. Girls' Junior Champion and Mexican Women's Amateur Champion, was unawed by her high standing.

"If I play the way I want to, I can do pretty good," said Miss Lopez, who had four bogeys and three birdies in her 38-35 round. One of the bogeys came on the third hole, where she missed a one-foot putt.

The 113 pros in the field are vying for $55,000 in prizes, including $8,000 for the winner.

Miss Rankin, of Midland, Tex., has already garnered $37,000 in winnings in 1975, on the strength of six second-place finishes.

The tour leader, Sandra Palmer, who has won nearly $57,000, shot a 78.

On August 8th, 9th and 10th, nearly 500 Berrien youth representing twelve major sport areas, will travel to Bramford, Ontario, Canada for this year's competition.

Tonight's Blue-Gold Basketball Game traditionally marks the beginning of Olympian Week in Berrien County. Opening Ceremonies will begin at the St. Joseph High School at 7:30 pm followed by this annual game that matches the finest graduating Seniors from the County's High Schools, in All-Star Competition.

There is still time for young people to sign up and participate in this year's games. BUT THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE. Youngsters between 6 and 18 are eligible to participate, but must be 8 to travel to Canada. Thirteen of the fifteen sports are still open if you bring a completed CANAMER Registration Form with you to the competition site mentioned above. These Forms are available at the CANAMER Office located at 144 Pipestone Street, Benton Harbor, or at most sporting goods stores and schools throughout the County.

Due to elimination that has already taken place, Bowling and Golf have been closed for this year. If you have any questions regarding the Olympian Finals of CANAMER, please call the CANAMER Office at 927-4022.

Controversial Sex Education Bill Defeated In Senate

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Senate has defeated, at least temporarily, a controversial bill to permit the teaching of birth control in Michigan schools.

By a vote of 24-15, the chamber Thursday rejected a bill which would have lifted the current prohibition against the teaching of contraception in sex education classes.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, said he would seek another vote on the issue. He can make that motion any time in the next two days the Senate is in session.

Despite the lopsided vote, Bursley remained optimistic about the eventual outcome. He said he had 18 or 19 votes — a majority of 20 is needed — but some lawmakers voted against the bill when they saw it could not pass.

The vote continued the bad fortune of the bill, which passed the legislature in 1967 — only to be vetoed by Gov. George Romney. Since then it has died three times, twice in the House Education Committee. It has been strongly opposed by conservative women's organizations, which lobbied against it this week.

The bill would require the state board of Education, along with the Department of Public Health, to establish guidelines on birth control, sex hygiene and venereal disease for teaching in the classroom. It would bar teaching of abortion, but permit discussion of contraception methods.

Students would not be required to take the class, and could be excused from health classes if such subjects were discussed.

The major discussion on the bill centered around an amendment offered by Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, which would have permitted a student's attendance at such classes only with a note from his parents.

Charges Against BH Pair Dropped

Charges against two Benton Harbor men were dismissed yesterday during a Berrien circuit court trial when one claimed she couldn't remember anything about the incident.

Charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100 were dismissed after the trial had been in progress for only about three hours. Freed as a result of the dismissal were the defendants, Oscar Jones, 26, of 601 Pavone street, and Robert Griffith, 21, of 800 East Vineyard street.

The two had been scheduled for a 1½ day trial before Judge Julian E. Hughes. Asst. Prosecutor Pat Murphy made a motion to dismiss the charges when two of his principal witnesses did not testify as expected. Hughes granted the motion.

Jones and Griffith were accused of receiving or concealing an allegedly stolen color TV and .45 caliber pistol April 1 in Benton township.

One witness, Donald Wilburn, 23, of 310 Colby street, Benton Harbor, pleaded the Fifth Amendment (the right not to incriminate oneself) and Dorothy Parlee testified she was unable to recall anything about the April 1 incident. Wilburn is scheduled to go to trial on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100 in connection with the same property, according to Murphy.

St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich represented the defendants.

Flour Recalled By FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is recalling 1.4 million pounds of self-rising and plain flour from stores in Michigan and eight other states.

The flour manufactured by Martha White Mills of Huntington, W. Va., lacks the enrichment declared on labels, the agency said.

The flour was sold under the brand names Martha White, Famine, White Dove, Cream, Kruger, Roller Champion, Light White, Always Good, Dan Valley, Virginia Maid, Metropolitan and Dan River. Lots 41355 through 41675 were recalled.

New Troopers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Forty-six Michigan State Police candidates were sworn in as troopers Thursday in graduation ceremonies. The class began in March with 83 recruits, including 11 women, two of whom graduated. The class brings the strength of the State Police to 2,004.

Kelley Says He Will Keep Eye On Charity

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill passed by the legislature tightening control over charity groups has been praised by the state official who will enforce it. Once Gov. William Milliken gives the bill his expected signature, people can be confident the use of their charity donations will be watched, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said Thursday.

The bill will require licensing and bonding of professional fundraisers, begin control over single-county solicitors raising more than $4,000 a year, ban use of slogans copied from government or other charities and prohibit fraud, Kelley said. A five-year study of 70 charity groups showed actual charity spending ranging from four cents in a dollar to 86 cents, Kelley said.

EARLY START?

'Premiere Week' Kinda Confusing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Around Sept. 8, the new TV season's "premiere week" unveils its fall line of gunfire, comedy, medicine, music and drama. But eight new series aren't waiting for the Great Ratings Rush.

CBS and NBC each have four shows leaving the starting gate early to let viewers sample new wares they might overlook in the 70-show smorgasbord of premiere week. The French call this "ze clean getaway."

ABC says it plans no "prepresentation" of new shows. A pre-presentation is that which fills the gap between a "formal debut" and an "en-core telecast," or what some might call a rerun.

NBC's Head Start program involves three new Thursday night shows and one Sunday effort.

On Sept. 4, it'll air "The Montefuscos," an Italian-American comedy formerly called "Sunday Dinner;" "Fay," a show about a new divorcee, and a special two-hour version of "Medical Story," a new medical anthology series that'll run an hour in regular season play.

On Sunday, Sept. 7, NBC pre-presents "Family Holvak," starring Glenn Ford as a country preacher. It first was called "Holvak," but "Family" apparently was added so viewers wouldn't confuse it with "Kojak."

Three of CBS' four Head Start programs are making a unique arrival. They're being broadcast on nights that differ from where they'll regularly appear during the fall season.

Only "Duc," a Saturday night medicine show, is being pre-presented on its assigned night for the new season. CBS will air the "Duc" pilot on Aug. 16, then put the series into its regular season run on Sept. 13.

"Beacon Hill," the Americanization of "Upstairs, Downstairs," is holding a special two-hour advance-show on Monday, Aug. 25. It'll start its assigned one-hour run on Tuesday nights, effective Sept. 2.

"Three for the Road," a family yarn about a widower and his two teenage sons, is scheduled to appear on Sunday nights, starting Sept. 14. But CBS will air the pilot of the show on Thursday night, Sept. 4.

"Big Eddie," a situation comedy starring Sheldon Leonard, starts its assigned Friday night run on Sept. 12. But CBS will give viewers three advance peeps on Saturday nights, starting Aug. 23.

"Big Eddie," by the way, originally was described by CBS as a "classy ex-gambler." CBS now says he'll be the manager of a major sports complex. We shall await the next change with great interest.

DOUGLAS — Alonza McKellips of Ganges was admitted to Douglas Community hospital, here, this past week.

Three Demand Hearings

In Berrien Fifth District court Thursday three men, including one sought on a warrant since 1968, demanded preliminary examinations. Eight persons were sentenced.

Demanding preliminary hearings were:

Felix Salazar, Jr., 23, of Benton Center road, Benton township, charged with forging a $53 check Oct. 28, 1968, in Benton township. Described as a self-employed diesel mechanic who has been in Florida for several years. Salazar was jailed in lieu of $2,500 bail. The statute of limitations does not apply because a warrant for his arrest was issued a few months after the incident, court records show.

Richard J. Loft, 18, of 6071 Union, Eau Claire, charged with carrying a concealed pistol in a car July 14 in Benton township. He was freed on $1,000 bond.

Walter L. Lacy, 35, of the Michigan hotel, Benton Harbor, on a charge of unlawful use of a pickup truck belonging to the St. Joseph Catholic church rectory, July 13. He failed to post bond of $2,000.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Disorderly person — Lohnde Lee Wigfall, 18, of Blossom lane, and Douglas W. Camper, 17, of 270 Urbandale, both of Benton township, fine and costs of $55 each; or 10 days in jail, for gambling; Fred A. Russum, 11, 18, of Jackson, $10. — Assault and battery — Clifton Marlow (also known as Morrow), 38, of 830 East Washington, Benton Harbor, and Jon Errol Mix, 19, of 2088 Empire, Benton township, each $40.

Driving while intoxicated — Travis D. Peppers, 30, of Plainfield, Ill., $151; Westley Calloway, 42, of 1400 Territorial, Benton Harbor, $350 and two years probation for second offense.

Sentenced to 30 days in jail for petty larceny at K-Mart, Benton Harbor, on July 3, was Ronald E. Goudloe, 21, of 174 Catalpa, Benton Harbor.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, cautiously eyeing a further increase in the prime rate.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about a point, but issues gaining in price were slightly ahead of losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market has been swayed by interest rate developments in recent sessions. Today, First National City Bank increased its prime lending rate for the third consecutive week, this time to an industry high 7 1/2 per cent from the previous 7 1/4 per cent.

Wall Street frequently follows prime rate developments closely, since they indicate how readily and cheaply big business can take out bank loans. Traders are especially sensitive to interest rate news now, with hopes high that an economic recovery is getting underway.

Honesty Mining fell 1 1/2 to 47 1/2. Texas Instruments was off 1/2 to 110 1/2, while J.P. Morgan gained 3/4 to 64 1/2 and Veeva Offshore tacked on a point to 37 1/2.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.83 to 84.28 following a 9.76-point loss the previous session.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 9-5 margin on the NYSE with volume easing to 21.42 million shares.

The Big Board's composite stock index declined 0.48 to 50.24.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost 0.57 to 95.70.

Fall Hurts Workman

A 48-year-old Byron Center, Mich., man was injured yesterday about noon when he fell from a ladder while working at the Benton Harbor high school auditorium.

Police, firemen and ambulance personnel rushed to the scene after they received word that a roof or ceiling had collapsed at the high school and several people were believed injured. The report apparently was a misunderstanding in relayed messages.

Listed in fair condition this morning at Butterworth hospital in Grand Rapids was Bernard Wychers, 48.

Fire Chief Harold Gaddie said Wychers fell when the ladder he was standing on apparently twisted. Wychers fell several feet and struck his head. He was knocked out momentarily, but regained consciousness before being transported to Mercy hospital. He was later transported to Butterworth to be nearer his home.

Wychers is the owner of Wychers Plaster Co., Byron Center, and was doing work on the high school auditorium which is being reconstructed.

Gaddie said he thought a misunderstanding call by another construction worker who witnessed the fall may have led to the rumor of the ceiling collapse.

Injured

PAW PAW — David Meyers, 21, Paw Paw, was reported in fair condition at Bronson hospital in Kalamazoo today after he was injured yesterday afternoon when his motorcycle was struck by a car at Almena, east of here.

State police at the Paw Paw post said Meyers suffered a broken leg and shoulder when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Stephanie Wolfe, 22, Galesburg, about 2:15 p.m.

Miss Wolfe, who was attempting to make a left turn off CR-453 at the time of the collision, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way, troopers said.

Squirrely Problem

DETROIT (AP) — A spokesman for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. says poor phone service may be caused in some areas by pregnant squirrels who have a craving to gnaw through phone cables.

The spokesman said the squirrels' wirey diet can mean deteriorating service until cables are fixed.

"We don't really know why the squirrels chew on the lead casings," said the spokesman.

He said another theory is that squirrels chew on the lead casings because of a deficiency in their diet.

HOW TO SLASH YOUR '75 AND '76 TAXES NOW!

How many evenings, holidays and weekends do you and your spouse spend attending meetings, participating in community chest, Red Cross, etc.? More than you probably realize. And while you cannot deduct the value of services rendered to these charitable organizations, it's also true — and this is frequently overlooked — that there is a real tax reward for all your efforts.

That reward lies in the fact that you can deduct out-of-pocket costs incurred in performing these services.

So check the list of deductible items below, start keeping a complete record (and try to remember what you've spent so far in 1975). When you figure your charitable contributions next spring, you'll be delighted to find out how this list will help you increase your deduction.

* Cost of transportation (including commuting) to and from meetings and the like. If you use your own car, it's 7 cents per mile plus tolls and parking charges. Watch those tolls.

* Cost of distinctive uniforms and accessories, such as white gloves and shoes for volunteer hospital or Red Cross service — provided they are not suited for general use.

* Cost of operation and repair of personally owned equipment used in performing services. This would include such items as aircraft, automobile, radio equipment, etc., furnished by a volunteer for the Civil Air Patrol.

* Also the cost of public service, whether you are elected or appointed. More and more men and women are going in for local politics — many of you serving without pay as mayors, councilmen and trustees in your towns and villages. More often than not, you'll wind up out-of-pocket when your term of office expires. You can deduct these costs as charitable contributions. Keep your records.

If you were to take a few minutes to calculate how much time you spend for a variety of activities other than actual attendance at services at your church, synagogue, other house of worship, I'll wager you would be amazed at the number of hours. There are so many volunteer services for which you are entitled to deduct out-of-pocket expenses, that you'll send a perfectly valid tax deduction right down the drain — unless you keep track throughout the year. And half the year already is gone.

Just consider how the trips you and your spouse make to and from your church for volunteer services can add up in dollars and cents. Say, for instance, you live in the suburbs, about 12 miles from your church, are both active in church activities. Say that in 1975, you and your spouse chalk up 6,000 miles going back and forth. Multiply this by the automatic 7 cents-per-mile cost and you have a deduction of $420! And this doesn't even touch on what you contribute to the collection plate or any other charity.

Since your distinctive uniforms and accessories — such as choir robes and Brownie troop leader's uniforms — are not suitable for general use, the costs of buying and cleaning them also will be deductible on the '75 return you'll file in 1976. You must have all these records for proof, if questioned.

You and your spouse are, probably dues-paying members of one or more charitable organizations. Of course, any amount you pay over regular membership dues is a deductible contribution.

But your regular dues are deductible too, if your membership privileges in the charitable organization are merely nominal and you're not entitled to special services.

Caution: Contributions can be deducted only if made to a corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation operated exclusively for purposes that are charitable, religious, educational, scientific, literary, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. The organization must be organized or created in the United States.

Direct contributions to individuals — say, a friend who is out of work and in need — cannot qualify.

As for how much you can deduct, the answer is: generally, only the amounts you actually pay. The overall limitation on what can be deducted (which affects few of us) is: no more than 30 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

You are entitled to deduct for clothing you donate to charity (but that warrants a special section in Monday's column).

Disaster Designation Is Sought

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Agricultural officials are trying to have Mecosta County declared a disaster area after a July 10 hailstorm caused more than $500,000 damage to crops.

Ray Howard, county extension agent, provided the damage estimate but said checks for crop losses continue.

Howard said the storm was the county's worst in 50 years. Hail, up to six inches deep in spots, cut a two-mile swath through part of the county and into adjoining Isabella County. The hail damaged corn, fruit, bean and potato crops.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Q. I turned in some bond coupons at a bank. Later the bank called me and asked me to pay back the money because the bond had been called in.

A. It's possible. You hold "bearer" bonds. The company "bearer" bonds. The company has no record of your ownership and, therefore, could not inform you directly that your bonds were being retired — either for sinking fund purposes or as part of a general, total refunding.

This is a problem for all bearer bondholders. You must either watch the redemption sections for news of redemption or refunding, or else write the company when you buy the bond and see whether you can get your name on a list to be notified of any change in the status of the bond.

Most Growers Favor '75 Cherry Pool

HARTFORD, Mich. (AP) — Less than 14 per cent of the nation's tart cherry growers want to leave part of their crop on the trees rather than placing it in reserve under a federal marketing order.

U.S. Department of Agriculture's Cherry Marketing Administrative Board, said Thursday about 600 growers or 13.6 per cent want to leave part of the crop unpicked.

The rest, said Owen, want to harvest their cherry crops.

Under a federal marketing order, 15 per cent of this year's tart cherry crop must be included in a reserve pool or left unharvested.

"The order is designed to take the surplus cherries in the large crop years, put them in a reserve pool, and release them in short years," Owen said. A reserve pool is designed to prevent soaring prices in bad crop years.

This year's crop estimate is about 314 million pounds, Owen reported, with 14 to 15 million pounds not expected to be processed or frozen for the reserve pool. About 42 million pounds from last year's crop were unsold on July 1.

Owen gave this breakdown of those seeking permission to leave part of their crop in the field rather than in the reserve pool:

District One (New York) 130 growers or about 12 per cent; District Two (Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia) four growers or two per cent; District Three (Wisconsin and Upper Michigan) 160 orchardists or 15 per cent in Michigan and 70 or 17 per cent in Wisconsin; District 4 (Central Michigan) 125 or about 20 per cent; and District 5 (Southern Michigan and Ohio) 100 or about 9 per cent.

Most such requests came from small growers, Owen said.

and nearly 500 of them asked to leave the full 15 per cent unharvested. But they can change that decision and add their cherries to the pool at any time, he said.

Owen reported marketing officials are pleased so few growers asked to leave their surplus fruit unharvested.

"It means they have some confidence now in the order (regarding the reserve pool)," he said. He added most requests seemingly were due to cost of packing cherries for the pool or to cover fruit damaged by hail or brown rot.

FORD CLAIMS BREAKTHROUGH: Four southwestern Michigan Ford dealers inspect a Mustang II which gets 34 miles per gallon of gasoline in test runs. From left are Lew Evans, Berrien Springs; Ray Krenek, Hartford; Jim Hall, Three Oaks; and Bob Habicht, Buchanan. Test drives were Wednesday at 40 miles an hour on US-131 at Kalamazoo. Ford executives had representatives of news media drive cars. This Mustang has manual transmission. A Mustang with automatic transmission was tested at 32 mpg. Economy champion of Kalamazoo tests was a Pinto at 40 mpg. Ford says its research has produced compact cars which lead all other U.S. makes in mpg. This Mustang has 2.3 four-cylinder engine, four-speed transmission, 3.18 to 1 rear axle ratio and catalytic converter.

CHECKS RESULTS: Gary Teiller, field manager for Ford Motor Company's Lansing district, reviews log of test run for Mustang with automatic transmission. It checked out at 31 miles per gallon of gasoline in drive by Dale Sanford (left) of Herald-Palladium advertising department. Gary McCormick also of Herald-Palladium led all drivers with Mustangs with automatic transmissions at 32 mpg. A dozen news media representatives drove Ford Mustangs and Pintos in economy tests at Kalamazoo Wednesday. Gas gauge on door holds one-tenth of a gallon. Ford said its economy tests also have been confirmed by U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. (Staff photos by Dick Derrick)

Ford Still 'Run-Of-Mill' Mortal

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — President Ford has a disarmingly un-presidential appearance when he's being bounced along by a crowd of hand-shakers or walking onto the court for a tennis match.

The trait of looking so much like a run-of-the-mill mortal shouldn't hurt as he bids for election in his own right next year. Many of his predecessors strove for a bigger-than-life image — or had it thrust on them.

Ford opened his presidential campaign in his hospitable hometown last weekend, despite assertions from his staff that the trip was "nonpolitical."

National coverage captured the refreshing self-effacing character of the man whose plans to retire from a quarter century in Congress were sidetracked by his bizarre, Watergate-prompted elevation to the world's most powerful office.

Ford acts as though he told himself as a young man that power can blind a careless person to his own frailties and that humility is a virtue for a fragile human being.

Ford, who turned 62 last Monday, is still a west Michigan congressman in many ways. He has avoided, so far at least, the pancake makeup that former President Nixon used even in outdoor personal appearances.

In Traverse City and on Mackinac Island a week ago, Ford proved with a sort of charming gracelessness that he is, as one onlooker observed, "one of us."

At a reception, he waited in a slow-moving buffet line with the rest of the crowd, making low-key small talk. He inquired about the families of those he knew. And he listened when others spoke.

On the island, Ford was the same way. Asked as he arrived by late night helicopter if he would join the Boy Scout flag-raising ceremonies first thing in the morning, Ford said he thought he would "sleep in" instead.

He did not rise to raise the flag, but he made a special trip to Fort Mackinac to pose with excited young scouts. Some 46 years earlier at the same spot, 16-year-old Eagle Scout Gerald Ford bivouacked as part of a special honor detail.

Later, Ford slugged his way somewhat stiffly through a doubles tennis match, his weak right knee swathed in elastic bandages. He and his partner, tennis expert Gov. William Milliken, lost to Helen Milliken, the governor's agile wife, and William Seldman, Ford's economic advisor.

"I am not a hustler," Ford laughed before the mismatch when jokingly accused by a woman spectator of being the White House Bobby Riggs.

Ford then tromped from the tennis court to the golf course, where he played through nine ragged holes with U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich. One of Ford's drives bonked off the top of a concession stand. It took about half a dozen pulls at another green to sink the ball, which took on a life of its own and seemed to purposely dodge the cup with every swing. He happily dashed off autographs on the paper hats of giggling young fudge-shop employees, and stopped a carriage ride long enough to drop in on a surprised old island friend, who greeted the president in his bathrobe.

There seems to be little change in the man who on May 24, 1974, was asked by a nervous State Capitol tour guide to sign the building's guest book.

The then vice-president didn't hesitate, but you can barely find the name among all the other trappings. Just "Gerald Ford, Grand Rapids, Mich."

THE FAMILY that writes together: Irving Wallace and his son, David Wallechinsky, have co-authored "The People's Almanac," due in October. Mrs. Wallace just finished writing her first novel and daughter Amy is in the midst of her first book. Bar-Snooping at The Drake Room, NYC: For your next Margarita, moisten rim of the glass and spin in cinnamon instead of salt — for a refreshing difference. Famous Last Words: "Here, give me that tangled fishing line — I can get it all straightened out in a minute." Beauty Hint from "The Ritz": Morcha: "Mascara on the lower lashes will shadow puffs and lessen their appearance." Overworked Expression: "Well, that's show business!" Inflation Note: The price of a hospital operating table has zoomed to $6,000!

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: When cooking soup, put your spices in at the very end — or even the next day. That way you use less spice and get a better and richer soup (Pub Theatrical, NYC). To improve the flavor of a stew, cut the meat into one-inch cubes, then roll them in flour and brown in fat before any water or other liquid is added (Fontana de Trevi, NYC).
